ROOSEVELT WILL NOT APOLOGIZE.

Insists Upon Truth of His Charges Against Dix.

Compares Explanation to That of Shakespearian Scholar.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Oct. 25.—The controversy between Theodore Roosevelt and John A. Dix, the Democratic nominee for governor, was carried forward another step today by Colonel Roosevelt in his speech here. The colonel replied to Mr. Dix's denial made at Albany yesterday that he had been connected with the so-called wall paper trust. Mr. Dix said the Standard Wall Paper Company, with which he was connected, was not affiliated with the combine, and that the Standard company mentioned in the decision of the United States Supreme Court declaring the combine an illegal one was a concern which went out of existence in 1903. Mr. Dix demanded that Colonel Roosevelt apologize to him for what he said was a misrepresentation of the facts.

Colonel Roosevelt's speech here today made it clear he had no intention of making an apology. "There was only one Standard Wall Paper Company in existence at the time the decree of the Supreme Court was handed down," said he. "The Standard Wall Paper Company was mentioned in that decree. I know nothing of what internal arrangements were made. In any event Mr. Dix's partner, Julius Jackson, was president of the trust at the time the decision of the Supreme Court was handed down." Colonel Roosevelt declared that it was clearly the duty of Mr. Dix, since his partner was the head of the combine, to disassociate himself publicly from the trust.

"Mr. Dix's explanation," Colonel Roosevelt said, "is that of a Shakespearean scholar who, at the conclusion of his study of Shakespeare's plays, announced that he believes they were written not by Shakespeare but by another man by the same name."

The original Standard company, Colonel Roosevelt said, went into the trust and difficulties arose, and the trust entered suit against one of the subsidiary concerns the Voigt company. The Standard company, he said, was a party to the suit through the trust.

SECOND DAY OF CAMPAIGN.

Roosevelt Speaks in a Number of Small Towns in New York State.

PENN YAN, N. Y. Oct. 25.—The second day of Theodore Roosevelt's campaign in New York state began in a drizzling rain, which threatened to interfere with a number of proposed open-air rallies. Colonel Roosevelt early today reached Penn Yan from Binghamton, where he spoke last night. His first campaign speech of the day was delivered in a theatre here. The remainder of Colonel Roosevelt's schedule for the day calls for speeches in Canandaigua, Geneva, Waterloo, Seneca Falls and Auburn during the day, and at Syracuse tonight.

The opera house was crowded. A local glee club started things going by singing a song. "The glee club was right," said Colonel Roosevelt, referring to a line of the song, "In coupling the name of Dix with gold bricks." Colonel Roosevelt reiterated his charge that "Wall Street and Tammany Hall have struck hands," and referred again to the circulars which he said the campaign committee of Tammany Hall were sending out. "The circular says it will require a large amount of money to defeat the Roosevelt policies" Colonel Roosevelt said, "That is quite right. Tammany Hall has been betrayed into a momentary lapse of truthfulness. The policies for which I have worked cannot be defeated on their merits and they can be defeated only by th liberal use of money."

DEFENDS "NEW NATIONALISM."

Colonel Roosevelt Welcomed by Great Crowds in Geneva.

GENEVA, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt, on his arrival here, was welcomed by crowds, who stood in the streets in the rain, to cheer him. The theatre in which he spoke was crowded. In his speech here Colonel Roosevelt made a defense of "New Nationalism" and then discussed the tariff. He said that President Taft had taken the same position as was held by the great majority of the Republican party. His mention of the President's name was cheered. Colonel Roosevelt then explained the tariff commission plan.

DIX ENDS ARGUMENT.

Huppuch Thinks Charges are Disposed of Once and For All.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Chairman Huppuch, of the Democratic state committee, returned to his desk at Democratic state headquarters here today, while John A. Dix, the Democratic candidate for governor, went to Buffalo, where he will deliver tonight, his second speech of the campaign. Mr. Huppuch said he could not understand how there could be any more argument over the Wall Paper charges brought against Mr. Dix by Colonel Roosevelt. "Mr. Dix's statement, last night, at Albany," said the chairman, "disposed of the question once and for all."

BOILER MAKERS RETURN.

About 1,500 Union Men Go Back to Work at Increased Wages.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 25.—Fifteen hundred union boiler makers, who have been out on a strike since August 1, returned to work today, at increased wages which the manufacturers conceded. A score of shops were affected.

SYSTEMATIZING THE SEARCH WORK

Tracing the Course of the Missing Aeronauts.

Story That Balloon Was Seen to be Investigated.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—The work of systematizing the search for Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post of New York, the missing aeronauts, and their balloon, America II, is well under way here. Edmond F. Stratton, representing the Aero Club of America, who arrived here late yesterday, has already made his headquarters at a focal points, where reports from co-operators throughout Ontario and Quebec can be received "within 48 hours," said Mr. Stratton today. Sufficient advices will probably be at hand to indicate the courses of the balloons known to have crossed the Georgian bay.

If when the courses of the Azurea, Dusseldorf II, and the others are plotted out, there still remains several points on the map where a balloon has been sighted and these points indicate a fairly straight course, it will be taken for granted that the America II got safely across the chain of Great Lakes.

Despite the somewhat pessimistic view held by the dominion government officials, of the results to be obtained from a search of the vast wilderness of Northern Ontario, Quebec and Ungava, Mr. Stratton is confident that a definite trail can be established which will lead to the finding of the America II, and the rescue of Post and Hawley. Mr. Stratton admitted that it would be useless to send out relief expeditions until the course of the America II could be figured out. He said the America II carried provisions for four days and materials for securing fish and game. The story brought down to Huntsville, by Richard Cole, a guide who has returned from New Ontario, to the effect that he sighted a balloon last Thursday, will be investigated at once by Mr Stratton.

Guide Cole, it developed today, was with Dr. and Mrs. Meyers of Toronto on Rumsey Lake, about 20 miles north of Biscoe, on the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when the balloon was sighted. It apparently made a landing on the shore of Fox Lake, some two miles from Rumsey Lake, and about 22 miles due north of Biscoe. A heavy snow storm and fear of frost drove Cole and his companions out before efficient attempts to reach the aeronauts could be made, but upon reaching Biscoe a searching party was dispatched. Provisions were left by Dr. Meyers in a hunters' cabin, on Rumsey Lake, and shots were fired to attract the attention of the aeronauts.

PREPARING A RELIEF BALLOON.

A Machine With Supplies to Go in Aid of Crew of America II.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 25.—Preparations to send a balloon with supplies afte. Alan R Hawley and Augustus Post, the crew of the missing America II were hastened today. S. Louis Von Phul, who will pilot the relief aerostat, expects to leave here tonight for Canada. He plans to begin his aerial hunt from Sault Ste. Marie.

A reward of $200 was offered today by a company of fur dealers which has 10,000 correspondents in Canada, for information about the missing aeronauts. Notice of the reward was mailed to the Canadian trappers.

According to Captain John Berry, of St. Louis, who had charge of the inflation of the America II, the last words of Hawley before starting in the race were, "We are good to stay up 70 or 80 hours, and expect to break every record for distance and endurance. I know we are bound for the Canadian wilderness, but no timer will stop us." "I believe," said Barry "that Hawley and Post are now down and safe, far in the north of Canada. They told me they had enough food capsules to sustain them a month."

Hawley is a daredevil, whose one principal is to keep up as long as his balloon will carry him. Everybody knows Post's intrepidity from his presence of mind in making an entry in his log book, while falling in a balloon in Berlin. They had revolvers to shoot game, penalty of ammunition, and heavy clothing.

FRANCE WITHDRAWN OBJECTION.

Provided Liberia Signs Agreement Approving Frontier Delimitation.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—It is understood here that France her withdrawn its objection to the American plan for the regeneration of the finances of Liberia, provided Liberia promptly signs an agreement approving the recent frontier delimitation with France. The United States, it is said, is urging the little republic to agree to this proviso.

FURTHER TROUBLE EXPECTED.

President Davila's Nephew Held for Murder of Police Director.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—A special from Celba, Spanish Honduras, says that Antonio Davila, nephew of President Davila, is under arrest there, charged with the murder of Jose Ballestetos, director of police. The latter was killed following a warning given by Ballesteros to a woman, with whom young Davila associated that disorderly conduct at her house must cease. Davila left the house with the police chief, but, when a short distance from the place, he drew a revolver and shot the officer dead.

The despatch received here states that further trouble is expected.

CYCLONE VISITS COAST OF ITALY.

Bay of Naples and Vicinity Devastated by Storm.

Monetary Loss is Great and 100 Persons Killed.

NAPLES, Oct. 25.—The beautiful coasts of the Bay of Naples, the gulf of Salerno, and the islands of Ischia and Procida have been devastated by a peculiar combination of the elements. The exact number of victims has not been learned, but 250 persons are said to have been killed. The monetary loss is great.

The disaster appears to have come in the form of a cyclone having three centres, the first over the island of Ischia, the second over the town of Torre del Greco, on the east coast of the Bay of Naples, and the third sweeping the Gulf of Salerno. Accompanying the cyclone were a cloudburst, a tidal wave, and violent eruptions from Mount Vesuvius and from a crater suddenly opened on the summit of the long extinct Mt. Epomeo, on the island of Ischia. Ischia and the adjacent islands suffered most. No Americans are reported in the troubled zone, foreigners having recently given that section a wide berth because of the cholera epidemic.

Throughout the night much confusion existed, as the failure of the electric and telegraph wires left the territory in darkness and without means of easy communication. Admiral Leonardi, minister of marine, is at Ischia organizing the relief, for which $400,000 is already available. The coasts of the mainland, which yesterday were beautiful with their growth of orange, lemon, and mandarin trees, have been overrun with rivers of mud and ashes from Mt. Vesuvius. Human bodies and the carcasses of animals have been discovered in the molten stream.

The unique high road from Sorrento to Amalfi and Salerno, formed by terraces in the mountain cliffs and bordered with fruit trees and vines, was unrecognizable today. At several points landslides have occurred. Next to the loss at Ischia, the greatest damage was done in the towns of Portici, Torre del Greco, Resina, Amalfi, Sorrento, Majori, Ravello, Angri, Pontemagnano Cetraro and Montecorvino.

The station master on the railroad at Vietri, a mile and a half west of Salerno, was killed by an electric shock, while attempting to telegraph the news of the disaster to other points. Reports from Ischia describe the situation there as distressing. The famous Baths of Lucullus have been destroyed. At some points the lava from Mt. Epomeo is 20 feet deep.

When the cyclone was at its height enormous halistones fell and huge rocks detached from the mountain peaks came tumbling down Some of these must have weighed several tons. One measured 80 yards. At Torre del Greco the roof of a building was blown off and the floors collapsed, carrying a sailor, his wife, and child of 12 months into the cellar. The woman was killed and the husband with the babe in his arms escaped from the place, only to be drowned in the street. The baby was rescued.

Later and more accurate reports reduce the estimate of fatalities to about 100. The greater number of deaths were at Cetara, on the north coast of the gulf of Salerno.

STREETS LINED WITH TROOPS.

Precautions Taken in Connection With Emperor's Visit to the King.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—Elaborate police and military measures were taken today, in connection with the visit of Emperor William, and other members of the royal family, to King Albert. The streets were lined with 10,000 troops.

Today's press calls attention to the fact that the emperor never returned the visit of the late King Leopold II, which was made to Berlin in 1901, and expresses the opinion that the present call, which will be followed in the spring by a visit from President Falleres of France, marks a new era for Belgium.

Emperor William and his party were met at the railway station by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. The visitors were acclaimed by a great crowd in the streets.

LEPINE EXPELLED.

Violent Demonstration Against Prefect of Police in Parliament.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—When Parliament re-assembled today, after the recess, the extreme Socialists in the chamber, who are determined to champion the cause of the railway strikers, made a violent demonstration against M. Lepine, prefect of police, who was present as a spectator. They cried "Down with Lepine!" and demanded his expulsion from the building. President Henry Brisson was compelled to adjourn the session, which was resumed after the prefect had retired.

Several interpellations on the subject of the recent strike were made, some for and some against the right of the railroad men to unionize and strike, and others calling for the dissolution of National Federation of Labor organizations.

LIEUTENANT MONTE KILLED.

Airman Hurled to Ground and Aeroplane Badly Wrecked.

MAGDEBURG, Prussia, Oct. 25.—Lieutenant Monte fell with a Wright aeroplane today, and was killed instantly. The airman was planing to the earth when he started his motor. The strain caused the machine to turn turtle. It crashed to the ground, carrying the lieutenant beneath it. The aeroplane was smashed to bits.

State Sunday School Convention Opens in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 25.—Delegates from all parts of the state gathered in the First Baptist Church here, today, to attend the thirteenth annual State Sunday School Convention. The session was opened by Mayor Fletcher of this city, who delivered an address of greeting, following which several addresses were delivered by prominent speakers from within and without the state. Those who spoke today were E. [illegible] of Boston, and Miss Marion Slattery of Fitchburg, Mass. The convention will conclude tomorrow evening.

8,000 MEN OUT IN LISBON.

Soldiers and Firemen Take Freight Drivers' Places During Strike.

LISBON, Oct. 25.—Eight thousand freight and express wagon drivers went on strike today. Soldiers and firemen are being utilized in the transportation of the necessities of life.

The outbreak of labor trouble in the capital is considered especially unfortunate at this time, when an effort is being made to harmonize all classes in support of the provisional government and the new republic. A commission was named today, to establish courts of honor which are designed to replace the practice of duelling.

DREXEL GOES UP 7105 FEET.

Makes New American Altitude Record at Belmont Park.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The predicted record-breaking at the Belmont Park international aviation meet began today, J. Armstrong Drexel soaring to a height of 7105 feet and establishing a new American mark for altitude. In great circles he crept into the wind, pointing higher and higher into the glare of the setting sun. Beneath him three busy biplanes were scattering about the track racing for places in the grand speed event. He planed above them so high that in perspective he seemed almost immobile in the blue. His descent was swift but unhurried, and he landed lightly in the middle of the field.

There was immediate surmise that he had approached if not established a new record, but no figures were available until his barograph had been unsealed and the reading of the stylograph on the plotted sheet inside it examined. The instrument showed clearly that he had risen 7105 feet. The best previous American record was 6175 feet, made by Walter Brookins at Atlantic City, and Drexel's own best record, made last summer in Great Britain, was 6750 feet, at the time a world's record.

It is probable, however, that the official records as they will finally be compiled will allow him only 7100 feet today, as it is held that a barograph is an instrument not of sufficient accuracy to be relied upon for measurements down to the ultimate foot. The world's altitude record is 9156 feet, held by Henry Wynmalen, a Hollander.

Walter Brookins also went up for altitude in a "baby" Wright biplane—a machine precisely like the new hoodless fliers that the Wrights brought out this summer, but with a sharp upward cast to the planes, thereby enabling the aviator to point up more sharply and climb faster. Brookins went up 4882 feet, according to the barograph, and won second altitude honors for the day.

At the apex of his climb his engine, which had given him some trouble before, stopped dead, with both the propellers pointing straight up into the air, so that in gliding to the earth with no power on they afforded him the least assistance in breaking the rush of his descent. He came down whizzing about a mile and a half of the course and struck with a bump which broke his forward landing skid. The damage was insignificant, however, and he was not hurt in the least.

J. Armstrong Drexel took first prize in the initial distance event with 28 laps (70 kilometres, or 43.50 miles) in 54 minutes 33 3-5 seconds. Aubrun was second, with 25 laps to his official credit, although he actually made 26. He forfeited one for "fouling" a pylon. Johnstone, in a Wright biplane, was third with 21 laps. He had started wearily, whereas Drexel and Aubrun in their Blériot monoplanes had started late, overhauled and passed him.

In the same hour Count de Lesseps, in a Blériot, won the hourly altitude prize with an elevation of 5615 feet. Brookins was second in his unlucky flight.

In the second hour Latham, who started late, overhauled his competitors, and when time was called was credited with 21 laps, one less than he had actually made, although he had quit the course for some unknown reason two minutes before the finish.

DIX DEMANDS APOLOGY.

Calls Upon Roosevelt for Treatment One Gentleman Owes Another.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Repeating with renewed emphasis his previous assertion that he is not and never has been connected directly or indirectly with any wall paper trust, as alleged by Colonel Roosevelt, John A. Dix, Democratic nominee for governor, in a statement tonight, demands from the former President "the apology which one gentleman owes to another for even involuntary misrepresentation."

While in Albany today, attending the funeral of ex-Senator Hill, Mr. Dix was shown a copy of Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Ithaca, wherein the colonel declared that for 18 months Mr. Dix was a director of one of the companies in the so-called Wall Paper Trust, notwithstanding the statement of the Democratic nominee last Saturday to the contrary. Following a conference of Democratic leaders Mr. Dix issued his statement.

ADMIRAL JOHN J. READ.

Retired Officer Dies in Mount Holly from Heart Trouble, After a Short Illness.

Admiral John J. Read, U. S. N., (retired), died at his home in Mount Holly, N. J., Monday evening from heart trouble, after an illness of about two weeks.

Admiral Read was born in Mount Holly June 17, 1842, and was appointed to the Naval Academy from New Jersey in 1858. At the outbreak of the Civil war he was ordered into active service as midshipman on board frigate Potomac. He was promoted to ensign November 25, 1863; lieutenant, February 22, 1864; lieutenant commander, July 25, 1866; commander, December 11, 1877; captain April 27, 1893, and rear admiral, November 29, 1900. During the Civil war he was division officer on board Admiral Farragut's flag ship, the Hartford. He participated in attacks on Port Hudson, La.; Grand Gulf, Miss., and batteries at Warrington, below Vicksburg, and in an attack upon and the capture of Fort Fisher.

He was the first captain of the Olympia, which he took from San Francisco to Asiatic waters in 1895, with an entire crew of green men which he developed into the finest marksmen in the navy before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. It was this same cruiser and crew, under Commodore Dewey, now admiral, which did such heroic and efficient service in the battle of Manila Bay.

Admiral Read was executive officer of receiving ship Richmond, at League Island, 1898-1900; commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, 1901-03, and chairman of the lighthouse board, 1903-04. He retired, on account of age, June 17, 1904. He was a strict disciplinarian and a warm advocate of constant rifle practice to maintain the efficiency of the navy.

Frenchmen have invested about $500,000,000 in Turkey, Germans about $175,000,000, Englishmen about $150,000,000. Frenchmen own four-fifths of the Turkish bank stock, and more than 75 per cent of Turkey's public debt is held in France.

REFUSED VICE PRESIDENCY.

Dolliver Was Offered and Declined Nomination in 1900.

Story of How the Late Senator Might Have Been Chief Executive Instead of Roosevelt.

George F. Authier, political editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, asserts that the late Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver, prior to his death, told him confidentially, with permission to publish it later, the following story of how the Senator, then a Representative in Congress, refused the nomination for the Vice Presidency in 1900, which if it had been accepted would have made him President instead of Roosevelt and would have changed the political history of the country. He also asserts that Senator Dolliver's wife, who was a niece of D. K. Pearson, the Chicago multi-millionaire, was possibly responsible for his refusal to accept this nomination. The story as told by the Senator, according to this editor's statement, gives a new coloring to the reports as to how the nomination of Roosevelt was effected. The late Senator Dolliver is quoted as follows:

"Some months before the convention that nominated McKinley the second time Mark Hanna, who was managing Mr. McKinley's campaign, met me in Chicago and told me some of the difficulties he was experiencing in securing a running-mate for Mr. McKinley. 'I wish,' he said to me, 'that you would accept this nomination.' He told me they wanted a man who could go on the stump and hold some such position in the Republican party as Bryan occupied in the Democratic organization.

"I told Mr. Hanna that I expected and hoped to be elected United States senator from Iowa, that I regarded the Vice Presidency as a shelving place, and that I was not a candidate for a political sarcophagus. Then he asked me if I would permit the use of my name, promising that at the proper time it would be withdrawn. He told me there were several undesirable candidates in the field, among them Timothy Woodruff of New York and others. 'Woodruff,' he explained, 'is impossible because he has 150 fancy vests.' Still another one was ruled out on the ground that "he is back on his alimony." He explained that the use of my name would keep down this list of undesirable candidates, and I agreed with him that the mention of my name in connection with so distinguished an office could do me no harm and might be of value to me.

"When I went down to Philadelphia shortly before the convention I discovered that my candidacy had assumed serious proportions. My colleagues in the House had taken hold of the matter and my nomination was assured unless Mr. Hanna kept his promise. I went to him and told him that it was time for him to redeem his pledge.

"His reply was: 'Dolliver, we are up against it. There is no man in the field who will make a suitable candidate.' I said to him, 'Why not name Roosevelt?' He told me he understood there was a movement on among the Platt Republicans of New York to nominate Roosevelt in order to shelve him and get him out of New York, but he said he understood that Mr. Roosevelt would not accept the nomination. He did not express any objection to Roosevelt as the vice presidential nominee.

"After some conversation he authorized me to call on Mr. Roosevelt, put the situation up to him, and to assure him he could have the Vice Presidential nomination if he wanted it.

"I called on Mr. Roosevelt at his hotel. I found him in his room, with his coat and vest off, his collar off, and with his face flushed. He seemed to be greatly excited.

"When I told him the situation he demurred on the ground that he understood that neither McKinley nor Hanna wanted him. I assured him that he was mistaken. Then he said to me, biting his words as he uttered them, 'It seems singular that the men who can make me governor of New York want me to be Vice President, and those who can make me Vice President want me to be governor of New York.'

"After an extensive conversation I told him if he wanted to be Vice President the thing for him to do, and all that was necessary for him to do, was to go to see Mark Hanna, and he finally consented to do so. We went to Hanna's room together. Mr. Hanna had a calcareous growth on his knee. He was sitting with a bandaged foot and leg extended on an adjoining chair. He and Mr. Roosevelt greeted each other, and after some preliminary conversation Mr. Hanna said, 'Mr. Roosevelt, if you want this nomination all you will have to do is to say so,' and Mr. Roosevelt finally said that he would not refuse the nomination if it were given him.

"We left Mr. Hanna's room and in order to forestall the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt's changing his mind I stopped in at the Associated Press Office and gave out the information that Mr. Roosevelt had consented to accept the nomination.

"And that," concluded Senator Dolliver, "is how near I came to being President of the United States."

Mr. Dolliver laughed when he told the story, but there was in his voice a note of regret over the fact that he had not accepted that momentous nomination.

DEATH OF REV. FREDERICK M. GRAY.

Rev. Frederick Morland Gray, formerly canon of All Saints' Cathedral, Albany, N. Y., died in Cambridge, Mass., Monday. He was a native of Newport and was 78 years old. Before going to Albany Rev. Mr. Gray was rector of churches in Lancaster, Ohio, Greenville, N. J., and Staten Island, N. Y., and was also a former chaplain of St. Agnes's School at Albany, N. Y., and head of Holderness School, Holderness, N. H. He retired from active work several years ago, on account of his advanced age.

DENIES AMERICAN CLAIM.

Russia Refuses to Pay for Cargo of Seized Steamer Oldhamia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 24.—The Russian government has declined the English proposals to arbitrate the steamer Oldhamia dispute and the American request for compensation for the cargo, on the ground that the decision of the Russian courts that the cargo was contraband was final.

British steamer Oldhamia was captured by the Russians May 19, 1905, during the Russo-Japanese war, while bound for Yokohama with a cargo of kerosene consigned by American citizens.

TO RACE AGAINST THE WESTWARD.

William Fife, the British yacht designer, has accepted a contract to build a racing schooner for an owner whose name is not divulged. The avowed purpose of the owner, however, is to secure a racer capable of defeating American schooner Westward, owned by Mr. Alexander S. Cochran of the New York Yacht Club. Sailed by Captain Charles Barr, the Westward won the feature events at the Kiel and Cowes regattas last summer.

COLLECTED HER CHANGE.

A well dressed woman standing just inside of a pay-as-you-enter car taking fares from passengers was recently one of New York's queer scenes. On entering the car the woman dropped a 25 cent piece into the fare box by mistake. The conductor saw the error, but said he could do nothing in the matter. "Very well," said the woman, "I will get my 25 cents from the next four passengers." She explained the situation to the first man who boarded the car, took his nickel, saw that the fare was rung up and stood her ground till the change to which she was entitled was collected.

TO ABANDON NAVY YARDS.

Meyer Favors Closing All but Those at Boston, New York, Norfolk and Charleston.

Secretary Meyer on his return to Washington will take up the important question of the continuance of navy yards. This is a subject which has been under discussion in the naval general staff and among the bureaus of the department for some time. Various plans for the closing of certain unimportant naval stations were perfected by Mr. Newberry at the close of the last administration, and he ordered the naval stations at Pensacola and New Orleans abandoned. One of the first official acts of Mr. Meyer was to revoke this order, at the instance of those in the neighborhood of those stations, who were able to show that their abandonment was a detriment to the neighborhood.

Mr. Meyer is in favor of closing all but the Boston, New York, Norfolk and Charleston navy yards, but there may be military and other reasons which will require him to modify this project. It is appreciated that much influence is likely to be exerted in Congress against any legislation which will close a navy yard now in existence. There are always reasons which can be introduced to show why the least important naval stations should be maintained, and the arguments presented by the naval authorities do not necessarily carry the weight with Congress, which might be expected of information from such a source.

Mr. Meyer will return to Washington from his trans-continental inspection trip with some new ideas, it is said, of navy yard administration. He believes more than ever in his plan for conducting those establishments, and he has fortified himself with statistics which show the economy of the Meyer as contrasted with the Newberry system. One of the questions which he has been discussing is the situation at the Mare Island (California) navy yard. He has been informed that it will require no less than $1,000,000 to put the channel at that yard in proper condition, and that it will take $70,000 a year to keep it navigable for the largest vessels. He will defer recommendation on this question until he can talk with the President and ascertain whether it is possible to include this item in the naval estimates this year, it being decided by the administration to reduce those estimates by $4,000,000, as compared with the appropriation for the current fiscal year.

There are those who are in favor of the abandonment of the Mare Island yard if it is to take any such sum in the way of improvement and maintenance but the local influences are decidedly against any such proposition, and there is a difference of view as to the establishment of a second naval station, or dock yard preferably, in San Francisco bay. The Mare Island situation is one of the most troublesome with which the naval authorities are obliged to cope, and sooner or later it is bound to furnish the occasion of animated discussion in Congress.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Miss Alice Lambert is visiting Miss May Palmer at the home of Mr. Frank Tripp in Little Compton.

It has been decided not to give the harvest supper which had been planned for by the Ladies' Association of St. Paul's Church.

Mrs. Wanton T. Sherman of Newport spent Monday with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cornelius S. Greene, at Stone Bridge. After the death of her daughter, Miss Mattie Sherman, she broke up housekeeping and since that time, with the exception of short visits to relatives, has made her home with her brother, Mr. David T. Pinniger. She intends going soon to live with her son, Mr. Bradford Sherman, in Meriden, Conn.

Professor Marion Hall, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. Laura E. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. John Elliott returned here after the funeral of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe and will remain for a while for rest and quiet.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Anthony have had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Edward Potter of Dartmouth.

Mrs. Howard Bailey and her children returned to New Bedford Monday afternoon.

The Christian Church Sunday School used its new piano for the first time Sunday. Miss Mary Barclay is pianist for the school, which is in an unusually prosperous condition, numbering about 70 members, besides a large Bible class.

Several members of Nonquit Grange —Mrs. Fernando A. Wilcox, Mrs. Henry C. Wilcox, Mrs. Charles H. Potter and Mrs. Jason W. Gifford were guests of Portsmouth Grange on "neighbors' night." After the business Mrs. William K. Boyd opened a discussion on the present high cost of living and the cause, with Miss Phebe A. Coggeshall and Mr. Alton F. Coggeshall as leaders. The discussion was then opened for members, and the conclusion reached was that it was owing to trusts, strikes, and the short day's work of the laboring classes. Ice cream, cake and crackers were served. The subject for the next meeting will be "The History of Portsmouth Grange."

Mrs. Mary Quinn of Providence is spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weams at the Rhode Island Coal Company's works.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lawes, Miss Sally F. L. Lawes, Miss Mary E. Forrest, Mrs. T. H. Norris and Miss Elizabeth G. Norris of Providence were at "Highland Farm" Saturday and Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gory.

THE OUTLOOK IN PANAMA.

[Panama Letter to Utica Press.]

The Isthmian Canal Commission foresees the early completion of the Panama Canal, and on that account, at a meeting held last week, decided to allow employes on a monthly basis to accumulate two years of annual leave. At present, unless the six weeks allowed are taken each year they are lost entirely. On account of the prospect of the work being so near completion within two years as to make a steady reduction in force necessary, the commission has decided to allow the leave to accumulate for two years after January 1, 1911. This will insure men now employed on the Isthmus three months in which to find employment in the United States.

It will not be easy for many of them to get new positions, because their work in Panama, has not fitted them especially for any other work they might have to take up. In the case of mechanics, such as machinists and boilermakers, this does not apply, because good men of this class can get work at almost any time, but in the case of the 4,000 miscellaneous employes "a new job" is an obstacle. Already there is a gradual dropping out of men whose usefulness is not by any means impaired, but who feel the wisdom of "getting a new start" in the States at as early a date as possible. The accumulation of leave will make it now inclined to fear for the future less uneasy, and thus will be a factor in retaining the stability of the force.

PERRY VICTORY CELEBRATION.

Ten States Will Take Part in Historical Observance.

A Memorial Building to be Erected at Put-in-Bay for Use of the Government.

[New York Tribune.]

The United States is preparing to hold the most ambitious purely historical celebration that has ever been carried out in this country. The centenary of Perry's battle of Lake Erie will be the occasion for it. Eight states bordering on the Great Lakes and two others which, for particular reasons, claim part credit for the naval victory that saved the Northwest Territory to the United States will take part in the project. All but two of them already have appointed official state commissions to lay plans for the part they will take in the general program. The federal government will will have its part in the events of the occasion.

Appropriations amounting to considerably more than $500,000 will be sought from the various state legislatures and from Congress. Part of this sum will be used to defray the expenses of gigantic military and naval pageants, which will continue throughout the summer of 1913 at Put-in-Bay, in Lake Erie, the scene of the historic engagement and headquarters of the centennial observance. The greater portion of the funds will be devoted to the erection of a big memorial building and shaft on Middle Bass Island, where Put-in-Bay is located.

The celebration will open at Put-in Bay July 1, 1913, and will continue throughout the summer. In its large outlines it will include the following:

The raising and restoration of Commodore Perry's flagship, the Niagara, which is now sunk in the harbor of Erie, Penn.

The reproduction of other vessels engaged in the encounter and the reenactment of the battle of Lake Erie each day of the celebration.

Flotillas of modern warships brought into the Great Lakes for purposes of comparison with those of a century ago.

Encampments and exhibition drills of militia from the 10 states participating in the celebration.

Exhibition drills of federal troops.

Regatta and parade of the merchant marine of the Great Lakes, bringing together the largest number of vessels floating the American flag that have ever been assembled.

Meetings at Put-in-Bay of world congresses of all descriptions and conventions of the various historical and patriotic societies.

Erection of a memorial building at the cost of at least $500,000. The shaft will be 345 feet high and will contain the most complete wireless station that has been constructed, capable of receiving messages from any point on the Great Lakes. The building will be turned over to the federal government and will house all the government stations now in the vicinity.

Put-in-Bay, which will be the headquarters for the celebration is on an island of the same name, one of a group of islands off Sandusky Bay, Ohio, and is almost in the middle of Lake Erie, being a port of call for nearly all passenger steamers from Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit and Buffalo. It is almost altogether a summer resort, and has been popular as a meeting place for conventions for many years. It was close to its shores that Commodore Perry struck the blow that paralyzed the British naval power on the Great Lakes.

The Illinois commission, according to Chesley R. Perry, one of its members, is preparing to form an advisory board, composed of the heads of all the important educational institutions of the state, to decide on the particular features this state will contribute to the general celebration. In a report to be made to the governor this fall the commission will also urge that this state make a generous appropriation for the centennial.

The Ohio legislature has voted $80,000 as a preliminary contribution to the fund, and a bill which it is promised will be favorably reported before Congress this winter provides for an appropriation of $250,000 from the national treasury.

The states which have appointed commissions to co-operate in the celebration of the centennial are Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois, for the lake states, and Rhode Island and Kentucky. Rhode Island demanded a share in the observance by right of being the birthplace of Oliver Hazard Perry, and Kentucky insisted on coming in because it furnished most of the soldiers who, under William Henry Harrison, invaded Canada and, in the battle of the Thames, clinched on land the victory Perry had won on the water.

The various commissions have organized into an Interstate Board of Perry Victory Centennial Commissioners, with George W. Worthington, a Cleveland banker, as president, and Colonel Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, first vice president.

ROOSEVELT'S HAND-SHAKE.

[Lippincott's.]

"So you were introduced to Teddy Roosevelt this morning, eh? Let me shake the hand that shook the hand of Roosevelt!"

"No, sir, that hand's lame."

PERSONALS.

....Andrew Carnegie has arrived in New York from Europe, completing his one hundredth trip across the ocean. He will remain until May and will then go to Scotland, as usual.

....Mrs. William G. Clark, a Cleveland matron, became the mother recently of her third set of triplets. The family Bible shows the fact that she is also the mother of twins, and that she herself is the only sister of 20 brothers. Two pairs of twins and one set of triplets were born during Mrs. Clark's first marriage, and the remainder of 17 children came in groups during her second marriage.

....Dr. Kendric C. Babcock, president of the University of Arizona, has been appointed specialist in higher education in the United States Bureau of Education, at a salary of $3,000 a year. Dr. Babcock's duties will be to visit institutions of higher education, collect data as to new movements, and to furnish information respecting such institutions. The new appointee is a graduate of Harvard and Minnesota Universities.

....Because of conflicting reports as to the condition of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, who is ill, the Senator's physician has given out a statement. He said many of the Senator's friends throughout the country were caused needless anxiety by the reports, and the family desired it to be known that the Senator was not in any such condition as many of these would indicate. He says, further, that at no time during his present illness has Senator Elkins's condition been such as to give alarm to his attending physician or the members of his family.

A Handkerchief Shirtwaist.

With the tailored street suit of worsted or mohair material there should be a pretty blouse. Handkerchief blouses made from huge squares of Persian printed cotton stuff are very easy to make. The cut is seamless, and one has simply to arrange the square on the pattern so that the design will fall gracefully on the figure, add a satin collar and belt and bright metal buttons.

THE FISHERMAN'S WIFE.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]

I set my light in the window pane—
Blurred and spattered and splashed with rain—
Wild wind carry him home again!
Heart of my heart, would I love you? so
In a world with never a wind to blow,
Nor waves to batter nor tides to flow?
Never the need for a light to burn
Nor dread of the news it were death to learn,
And never the bliss of a safe return?

Who can love who has never prayed,
Sick with longing and all afraid,
While the hounds of the hurricane barked and bayed.

Prayed and listened and prayed again,
And then, through the roar of the wind and rain,
His finger tapping against the pane?

SOLDIERS SINGING "THE BATTLE HYMN."

Speaking of Julia Ward Howe and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," a Grand Army man told this story: "I was with my regiment at the training camp at Albany, which was near the penitentiary grounds, when one day we were all ordered to march into town. There were about 30,000 men stationed in camp, and with the exception of those who were in the hospital and on guard duty all marched down the hill and massed in State street, between the Capitol and postoffice. At the foot of the hill a stand had been erected, and I happened to be near it when an officer mounted and read the news of the victory at Fort Donelson. The reading took only a few minutes, and then some one near me started to sing 'The Battle Hymn.' The tune was taken up, and pretty soon that great mass of soldiers was singing. I never heard such music before or since, and I'm sure that the men who took part in that impromptu demonstration never forgot the occasion."

A CHIMPANZEE'S OUTING.

As 25 working girls came out of a dressmaker's shop in the Rue Bolleau, Paris, recently at midday, an arm encircled the waist of one of them. The girl protested indignantly. The intruder was well dressed in a frock coat, gray trousers, top hat, patent leather boots, and wore smart gray suede gloves.

The girls began making fun of him, when suddenly he caught hold of one and put his face close against hers. She boxed his ears, and he dropped on all fours and bit her leg. There was a panic. The girls rushed off shrieking, and two policemen arrested the aggressor. The creature was a chimpanzee, the pet of an explorer living near at hand.

An amusing incident of the story is that the police magistrate became angry with the creature when he was first brought in because he refused to answer any questions.

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Newport. Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Newport still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

George C. Kault, Cranston Ave., Newport, R. I., says: "I am not certain as to the cause of my kidney trouble, but believe it was due to drinking impure water. Some time ago I was attacked by a dull ache across the lower part of my back. The kidney secretions also became scant and painful in passage, and caused me considerable annoyance during the night. When I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Wright & Hay's Drug Store and found relief upon taking the contents. The use of a second box effected a complete cure, for which I am truly grateful."

HAVING FUN WITH DIX.

Some years ago the "wicked partner" was a more common phrase in politics than it is now. The incident which gave rise to the term has been forgotten, but there never could be a more perfect illustration of the phrase than is afforded by the Democratic candidate for governor of New York and his partner Happuch. The Republicans are having great fun with Dix and the most hide-bound Democrat cannot be quite blind to the humor of the situation. As a Democratic candidate Dix is of course the relentless foe of trusts and a high tariff, but it appears that one of Dix's companies is in the wall paper trust and his partner Happuch wrote a letter asking for an increase of the duty on wall paper. It would be impossible to conceive of a situation more delicious to the Republicans.

Entertaining as these incidents of politics are, they probably have little or no influence in the voting. There is something the matter with most candidates' few of them are invulnerable to some argumentum ad hominem of this sort. Nobody who was going to vote for Dix will be deterred therefrom by the fact that he is tarred with the Republican stick. Consistency is a jewel, but jewels are rare things; most of us must do without them. Our candidates are often not exactly what we would like, but we are obliged to make the best of them. The Republicans will of course secure no end of diversion out of Dix's "wicked partner", but they will not frighten any Democrat out of voting for Dix and the Republicans who are disposed to vote for him are not likely to be kept on their party reservation by shaking Happuch's letter in their faces.

Politics is not entirely a serious business. Those who practice it do so largely for the fun they find in it. Some are in politics for principle and some for self but the greater part are in politics because it is an absorbingly interesting game, like poker or golf. As to the political followers, their task would be a dull matter of routine or duty if it were not for occasional diverting incidents such as Happuch's letter asking for more protection on wall paper.

LOAN BANKS FOR WOMEN WORKERS.

A loan bank for young women workers is a new philanthropy started by a woman's organization in this country, and is a worthy charity. Working girls seldom are able to accumulate a surplus to be used when an emergency comes, and under such conditions fall a prey to the money sharks who are looking for just such chances of securing an exorbitant rate of interest for the comparatively small sums which are required by these young women to meet a demand for funds for which they are unprepared. It is because of a realization of this fact that this woman's association has opened a loan bank for the express purpose of lending to working girls the small amounts they may need from time to time for necessary expenses, thus relieving them from the necessity of dealing with money lenders who are unreasonable in their interest charges and take advantage of the girls in their emergency. The idea is an excellent one and the bank will do much toward making easier the financial lot of the average young woman who is compelled to work for her living.

It is rather to be regretted, however, that this woman's organization determined to make the loan bank a charity instead of a philantoropic institution. The decision was reached to charge no interest for the loans made to working girls and require no security from them for repayment. This is a mistake and not at all in accord with the rules of modern philanthropy. It would be far better, both for the institution and for the girls themselves, if a small interest charge was made and reasonable security required. Such a course would enable the young working women who avail themselves of the services of this bank to retain their independence and continue to feel that they are simply making a business transaction and not accepting a form of charity. Under the conditions which have been decided upon, of no interest charge and no requirement of security, the girls can but feel that they are being given something for which they are making no return, and that feeling is not agreeable to a large number of young women who are classed among the workers and is not best for any such persons.

Most of these girls who will thus be helped are engaged in business life and accustomed to business principles, and it is unfortunate that a plan to help them when they are in need of a small amount of money should be so formulated as to violate those business rules with which they are familiar and in accordance with which they act in their occupations. The business training, simple as it may be in some cases, which these girls receive in their work is a benefit and it is wrong to try to lessen its influence by offering them charity in such a form as to violate all the rules of business life to which they have become accustomed. The girls, it may well be believed, would prefer to be independent in this matter and to feel that they are simply being protected from money sharks, and not also being placed in debt to strangers for accommodations which it is possible for them to accept under the rules of business and not be made objects of charity.

It is to be hoped that this woman's institution which is commencing this form of assistance for young working women will see that it is proceeding on the wrong principle and so modify its arrangements as to require those who accept loans to pay reasonable interest and furnish some simple security, so that the loans may seem a business transaction and not charitable assistance entirely. It is also to be hoped that any other organizations which may take up this helpful aid for working girls will not make the same mistake in establishing a loan bank, but will place it on a business basis and thus make it a philanthropy by making it possible for those who need its services to receive them instead of resorting to money sharks, and not a charity by placing its beneficiaries under complete obligation to it through the acceptance of something for which they are required to make no return and so lose their independence.

THE PRICE OF CONSOLS.

It is noted that the price of British consols is lower than it has been since 1847, but the interest now is only five sixths of what it was then. Consols touched their highest point just before the Boer war. The interest was a little higher then than it is now, but the reduction explains little of the decrease in the selling price. This is due to the decreased demand. Investors, it is said, shun consols. If few people are buying them the price must go down.

That investors are shunning them may mean several things. Of course it does not mean that there is any doubt about the payment of the interest. As for the principal, payments on the public debt are of small amount. We expect ultimately to pay off the whole of our national debt, but England does not expect to pay off hers. The attraction of consols has been that they were not to be retired; they were a permanent investment. No one has any doubt of the continuance of the British government or its ability to pay the interest on its debt, so that it is not want of confidence which reduces the price.

A gilt-edged security of a permanent character has great attractions for many sorts of investors, even though the returns be small. Trustees and persons without business experience care more for the security of the income than its amount, and for them British consols represent the most desirable of investments, but of course the number of these investors is limited. The high price of consols before the Boer war was due mainly to the fact that for many years the British government had been reducing the public debt. Consols were becoming scarce. An enormous amount of them needed to be issued to meet the costs of the war in South Africa and since then there has been an oversupply. It must also be remembered that there is now a great amount of securities of high character which pay more than two and one half per cent. There are railroad bonds, municipal bonds and bonds of manufacturing concerns and banks which are thoroughly trustworthy and pay better than consols. Hence there is less demand for consols and their price must go down.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

Japan is becoming concerned over the constantly growing friendship between the United States and China, and her increasing investments in the latter country, in which the government itself is laying out its own funds heavily, are regarded as for the purpose of securing ground for action should any question of American investments and influence in China arise. Japan has had her eye upon China for years, and is jealous of any movement by other nations which may be in the direction of establishing business enterprises in the celestial empire. The belief is gaining in Japan that China is becoming convinced that her only hope of maintaining her independence is to seek an alliance with either the United States or Germany. It is thought in Japan that of the two China would prefer American protection, and that she intends doing all in her power to persuade the Washington government into definitely guaranteeing it. Japan sees in this an overthrow of her secret plans and is doing all she can to stop it.

The Postoffice Department was run during the fiscal year ended June 30 last with a deficit of $6,100,000, but this is a reduction of $11,600,000 from the year before. The saving was made without the curtailment of the postal facilities in any direction, but rather with an increase in efficiency. Fifteen hundred new offices have been established, the rural free delivery has been increased by 515 routes, with an additional mileage of 12,235 miles; 1,600 new clerks have been appointed from the civil service, 1,000 new letter carriers have been put at work, and 750 railway mail employes have been added to the force.

The new police regime in New York has started its work by attempting to close up Chinatown as an attraction to sight-seers and a place where crime may flourish at all hours of the night. Monday a curfew regulation was put in force, with 12 o'clock midnight as the time set for all persons to be off the streets in that section, unless engaged in legitimate business. Under the new regulations Chinatown will no longer be an attraction for visitors and slummers at night, and a stop may be put to the vice which has flourished there under a thin guise of respectability.

Bristol has been selected as the place in Rhode Island where the postal savings bank plan will be tried, fulfilling all the desired conditions for a satisfactory test of the new system—a postoffice, banking facilities and an industrial community. It is not expected that any additional places for the banks will be chosen until the one in cachet ate, first selected, has given the scheme a fair trial in comparatively small communities.

A steamship sailing from Boston for Liverpool today has a shipment of 25,000 barrels of Baldwin apples for European markets. The fruit comes from various parts of New England, New York and the West, and required 1,250 freight cars to take it to Boston. It will be sold at auction in Liverpool.

New York has adopted a tentative budget of expenditures for the coming year, the appropriations footing $171,505,737.56, an increase of more than $5,000,000 over the present year. This increase is made up principally of debt service items and amounts included to make up for deficiency in collecting taxes.

The United States has some things to learn of the mother country in its methods of court procedure. It is not believed that the ends of justice are in any way sacrificed by the straightforward processes of the English courts.

To what are we coming? Now we have a case where a lawyer in New York is suspended from practice before the courts for "obstructing justice!"

THE NOVEMBER MAGAZINES.

The complete novel in the November Lippincott's is "The Lady of the Spur," by David Potter, author of "An Accidental Honeymoon." This latest story is of modern times, and the scenes are laid in Maryland. Besides the novelette, there are seven complete stories. "Genevieve Maude's Perishin' Soul," by Elizabeth Jordan, is a funny child story of family loyalty. Stage life on its human side is depicted in "The Failure," by Will Levington Comfort. "Out of Rounds," by Owen Oliver, is a tale of life at a boys' school. "Stockings and Pumps," by Anne Dana, is a romance of Civil War days. "The Door That Opened," by Marion Hill, is a tale of low life and a man's redemption. "Mrs. Billy Weightman's Grouch," by Caroline Lockhart, is a story of the West, and "Snitzky," by Daisy Rinehart, tells of an instance of heroism in a hospital.

The second and concluding paper of General Charles King's literary reminiscences is another interesting feature. Seasonable sketches are "A Universal Thanksgiving," by W. J. Lampton, and "Thanksgiving Women," by Minna Thomas Antrim. "That Boy," by Thomas L. Masson, is a paper which will appeal to parents. "The Demand for Better Plays," by W. Dayton Wegefarth, embodies the views of a theatre manager on the stage as it is conducted today. Witter Bynner, Marion Cummings Stanley, Margaret Adams, Mildred I. McNeal-Sweeney, and John Northern Hilliard are the poets represented in this issue.

In the November Everybody's Emerson Hough discusses "pants" in a funny article in which he calls on Congress to take up this subject of universal importance instead of trifling with the petty questions which cumber the deliberations of House and Senate. Frederic C. Howe, in "Choose Your Congressman," goes after the same Congress, by way of a practical, useful political article. Nothing could be less similar to the foregoing than Guy H. Scull's "Lassoing Wild Animals in Africa," telling by article and photograph how the Buffalo Jones expedition caught lions with a lariat; "Eves of an Unknown Eden," by E. Alexander Powell, F. R. G. S., picturing the beautiful women of Tehuantepec; and "H," another instalment of Lincoln Steffens's study of the sovereign political power of organized business.

The fiction is quite as varied. Jack London, in "The Madness of John Harned," tells a stirring story of an American in a South American capital; Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, in "The Little Cuss," gives a love story with a new idea in it; Edna Ferber, in "The Homely Heroine," is in a different vein; "A Recommendation to Mercy," by Sarah Warder MacConnell, is a domestic study with a new angle on the divorce question; "The Ne'er-Do-Well," by Rex Beach, carries the reader through another instalment of this serial, and three Little Stories of Real Life, by Will Irwin, Harvey Wickham and Helen Coale Crew, complete the fiction. The month's departments include "The Players," "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," "With Everybody's Publishers," and "Little Advertising Stories."

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Warren Chief of Police, Under Charges, Resigns from Force.

Filling Vacancies on the State Tickets—Clearing the Kent County Court Docket.

Chief of Police Charles W. Saunders of Warren, against whom charges have been pending since October 5, Monday evening tendered his resignation as chief, and from the paid police force of the town, at a meeting of the town council. The resignation was accepted. The evening was to have seen a hearing of charges preferred against Saunders by Rev. Joseph Hutcheson, rector of St. Mark's Church, but upon the receipt and acceptance of the resignation counsel for Rev. Mr. Hutcheson asked for leave to withdraw the charges, as the hearing would not be necessary. As soon as President Bosworth of the council called the meeting to order, Thomas F. Cooney, counsel for the chief, presented Mr. Saunders's resignation. Mr. Cooney said his client denied in toto the charges made against him, but that he felt it would be a waste of time and energy to have a hearing. He said Mr. Saunders did not believe the charges were made in good faith, and that he was merely being used as a scapegoat. In view of the fact that he had been dismissed previously from the office of chief on similar charges made by Mr. Hutcheson to the same council, he believed it best to retire from the force.

The time for the filing of nominations with the secretary of state, to fill vacancies caused through declinations of the men originally named, expired last night. According to Secretary Parker five of these vacancies remain unfilled, although if the proper nominations are received by mail this morning, postmarked before midnight last night, he will admit them to the official ballot. The five vacancies caused by declinations to accept nominations are in Central Falls in the Second representative district, Democratic; in Bristol, where the Democrats are apparently without candidates for senator and second representative; in Narragansett, where the Democrats have failed to name a candidate for senator, and in Richmond, where the Prohibitionists named a candidate for senator who withdrew his name. Two vacancies were filled, that of Republican candidate for senator from East Greenwich and that of Democratic nominee for representative in the Second Lincoln District. Adelbert Congdon's name was filed as Republican candidate for senator from East Greenwich, and James S. Gray in Lincoln. General Hiram Kendall, Republican nominee for senator from East Greenwich, filed his declination with the secretary of state Saturday. He has been in poor health for some time, according to reports, and it is understood that after a consultation with his physician he decided not to enter the race. He was a candidate for the senate last year, running against Thomas H. Galvin, who defeated him by a plurality of 171 votes. The name of Adelbert Congdon was filed in General Kendall's place.

The striking of 130 cases from the printed docket marked the opening day of the session of the superior court for Kent county, at East Greenwich Monday. Judge George T. Brown occupied the bench, and when the cases referred to were called without response from either party to the litigation they were ordered dropped. This action does not mean that the plaintiffs in the suits will lose their rights or that they may not have the cases adjudicated if they so desire. The papers in the actions will remain on file and the records concerning them are undisturbed, but the printed docket had assumed proportions which threatened to become cumbersome by reason of the large number of cases carried along from session to session with no action taken on behalf of either party. If any litigant should be aggrieved by the striking of his case from the printed docket it may be re-instated by his simple request to the clerk. Some of the cases stricken off have been carried on the docket 10 or 15 years or even longer. In many instances the plaintiffs or the defendants are dead, in some both parties are dead, and in others one or both of the attorneys are dead.

Little Mildred Walke Walter of Providence, granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral Henry Walke, has been selected by the Navy Department to christen the torpedo boat destroyer which is to be named after her grandparent, and which will be launched at the Fore River shipyard November 3. Miss Walter is the daughter of Edward Walter, her mother, Mrs. Catherine Walter, is the daughter of the late rear admiral, and the little girl was born in the family homestead at Brooklyn. Rear Admiral Walke, died at Brooklyn March 8, 1896. A Virginian by birth, he entered the navy as midshipman from the state of Ohio at the age of 18. He gave 54 years of active service to his country, passing through all grades, including rear admiral. As a midshipman, he was with Farragut and fought throughout the Civil war. He voluntarily retired from service in April, 1871, and made his home in Brooklyn until the end of his life. It was at his home that the little sponsor for the torpedo destroyer was born.

Dr. Lenox Gresham Walling, one of the promising younger physicians of Providence, and a graduate of Brown University, died at his home in Harrisville Monday of nephritis, which had caused him to give up his practice last April. Dr. Walling was born in Harrisville June 19, 1881, was graduated from Brown in 1902 and went to the Columbia Medical College, receiving his degree there in 1906. For the following two years he served as interne at the Rhode Island Hospital and then completed the course at the Lying-in Hospital. After finishing his training he opened an office in Providence, about a year ago. He was becoming well and favorably known as a physician when forced to give up his work on account of illness. At Brown Dr. Walling was a member of the honorary society of Phi Betta Kappa. He was also a member of the Providence Medical Society and the University Club.

At the Darlington Congregational Church, Pawtucket, Sunday, Rev. Gideon Burgess, the pastor, presented his resignation in a letter which was read to the congregation. Rev. Mr. Burgess has been connected with the church since it was organized and previous to that was pastor of the mission from which the church sprang. In speaking after the service, of his action, Mr. Burgess stated that he had under consideration certain plans for his future but there was nothing to be said at this time. He said his relations with the parish with which he had been connected were of the most pleasant character and that his action was wholly voluntary.

Nine young men who were successful in passing the recent examinations were admitted as members of the Rhode Island bar Monday before the Supreme Court. The names are Aylsworth Brown, Solomon S. Bronson, Eliot G. Parkhurst, Ralph V. Hadley and John L. Curran of Providence; Patrick E. Dillon of Valley Falls, Louis W. Dean of Johnston, David E. Lavigne of Woonsocket and Francis E. Sullivan of Cranston. The list includes a son of Judge Arthur L. Brown of the United States circuit court and a son of Associate Justice C. Frank Parkhurst of the state supreme court.

Gaskell & Cooper, Lonsdale bakers, are the first persons in Rhode Island to take advantage of a recent amendment of the federal bankruptcy law and ask to be permitted to make a composition with creditors without being adjudged bankrupt. The first meeting of creditors to consider the offer of composition was held Monday, although the bankrupt was not ready at that time to make the offer definite.

EASY AFTER THAT.

[Success Magazine.]

"I say, old fellow," confided the bachelor to his friend, "I'm going to be married, and for the life of me I don't know what to call my wife's mother. 'Mother-in-law' is too big a mouthful, and 'mother' would be too ridiculous. Tell me, what did you do?"

"I almost forget. Oh, yes; I think I mostly called her 'Say,' the first year."

"Well, and after that?"

"Oh, after that it was easy—we both called her grandmamma."

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Oct. 25, 8 A. M.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Rain this afternoon and tonight, cooler; Wednesday, fair and cooler; moderate to brisk westerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Rain fell in light to moderate amounts in the eastern Lake region and the St. Lawrence valley during last night. Otherwise there has been but little precipitation in the country since Monday morning. The weather this morning is generally cloudy in northern districts and generally clear in most southern sections. The depression that was in Ontario Monday morning has developed somewhat in intensity and moved southeastward. The barometer is still below the normal in all northern districts. The temperature shows only slight changes, and it remains generally near the seasonable average. The lowest last night in New England that was reported was 38 at Greenville, Maine. In New York at 8 a. m. it was 52, Washington 46, Jacksonville 64, St. Louis 52, Chicago 52, Denver 46, and San Francisco 58.

TAKING THE TESTIMONY.

Coroner's Inquest Shows That Woman Near Miss Parker Did Not See the Accident.

Coroner McMahon Monday held two sessions of the inquest into the death of Miss Helen W. Parker. In the afternoon the testimony of the Kaull family and that of a servant at Senator Sanborn's was taken, and in the evening that of Motorman Monteith, who drove the street car which Miss Parker was about to take and which approached the automobile after the accident, and of Chauffeur Schaefer. Sunday, as already stated, the testimony of the woman was taken who Schaefer said was talking with or standing near the nurse when he saw them first. It seems that when she saw an accident was inevitable she went along Powel avenue and did not see anything. The general impression given by those who have testified is in corroboration of the story told by Schaefer to the police immediately after the occurrence.

The inquest is still on, and is being held in the office of the superintendent of the cemetery on Warner street. Mr. MacLeod is representing the attorney general and Mr. Levy is looking after the interests of the chauffeur. Another session is due tonight, when it is expected that the hospital will be visited. There are other witnesses, who know something about this matter, who have not yet been summoned.

COULDN'T CARRY THE FLESH.

[Lippincott's.]

An Atlanta man not long ago met a darky, who was driving a horse so thin that it staggered as it walked.

"Why don't you put more flesh on that nag?" indignantly demanded the Atlantan.

"'Scuse me, boss," replied the driver. "But I's doin' de best I kin. Can't yo' see, boss, dat po' hoss kin hardly carry what little flesh he's got on him now?"

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—The Earl Simmons company is playing in Pawtucket this week.

—Messrs. John Kilduff and Eugene Hanks have returned from New York.

—Sergeant Schneider of the police force has returned from his vacation.

—The platform scales at the city yard are receiving a needed overhauling.

—Mr. Peter Deckenhardt of Jersey City, and family, formerly of Newport, are visiting here.

—Yacht Fairhaven has arrived from New Bedford, for an overhauling at the repair shops.

—A schooner is discharging a load of cast iron water pipe for the water company at the city dock.

—The new time ball at the Torpedo Station was raised today, but has not yet been placed in commission.

—Steamer Squantum is scheduled to arrive today, to undergo her annual repairs at the Newport Engineering Works.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Brown and their daughter have returned to Keene, N. H., after visiting Mrs. Brown's parents on Ruggles avenue.

—Lighter Archer arrived from Providence this morning, with the new smokestack for steam yacht Electric, and placed it in position.

—Launch Katherine, sloop Taboo, cutboat Mist and Ollie Hicks's houseboat are among the recent winter arrivals at Williams & Manchester's.

—Machinist (first class) Edward Peckham of battleship Vermont is at home on a ten days' furlough, his ship being at the Philadelphia navy yard.

—Steamer General Richard Arnold is hauled out at the shipyard to have her hull painted for the winter season. Lynch Bros. are doing some copper work on her.

—During their visits in Newport, Rev. C. W. Wendte, was guest of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Brackett, Rev. G. W. Cutter of Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Squire, and Rev. A. P. Record of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brown.

—A large number of friends from all over the city gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Buckley, on Coddington wharf Monday evening, and assisted them in celebrating the tenth anniversary of their marriage.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tar, F. C. Trammell and F. W. Hildreth of Boston; John Pulsins of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hunt of Sidney, Ohio, and L. R. Brown and C. H. Ross of New York are registered at the Perry House.

—Mr William E. Dennis, Jr., has arrived from Galveston, via New York. He came on steamer Brazos, which ran into the West Indies hurricane and made 184 miles sternway with the engines going ahead. It was a tough trip, but the steamer weathered it.

—There was a car collision Monday afternoon at the junction of Spring and Bowery streets. Geraghty's express and an electric car were the worst parts and both and a neighboring fence suffered somewhat as a result of the collision. No one was hurt.

—The finishing touches are being put on the new freight depot for the Adams Express Company at the railroad station. A set of second-hand platform scales is being installed and a rather elaborate layout of office furnishing has been erected, but has yet to be glazed.

—Coast survey steamer Hydrographer is in port, arriving Monday afternoon from New Bedford. The Hydrographer is in charge of Captain H. C. Graves and going from port to port, revising charts of the eastern coast, to bring them up to the very latest surveys.

—As a result of the recent heavy northwest blow there is a stray launch at Walter Bliven's. The launch, with its float, broke away from its moorings and was about full of water when it reached the vicinity of Spring wharf. It is about 20 feet long and is named Phebe Snow, and possibly came from the vicinity of East Greenwich or Wickford.

—Rhode Island Lodge, I. O. O. F., worked the third degree on several candidates Monday night, but it was what happened after the regular meeting, which the members are talking about today. They say the clam chowder prepared by Past Grand George Wright was as good as any which the late George C. Kaull ever made—and that is saying something.

—This morning Fletcher W. Lawton was in with 41 barrels of whiting, John Brownell had 29 barrels, of which one was mixed fish and the rest whiting. Ben Mayfield was in with 60 barrels of herring and about 20 of mixed fish. The herring made the largest catch of one sort of fish for some time, and the fishermen say it is a good sign for a fine cod season.

—The turbine was not started on its trip to the power house Monday night, as had been expected. It is still alongside the platform at Long wharf, but is expected to start about 7 this evening. At that hour Thames street ought to be clear of teams. The turbine will have the right of way because of size and weight, and nothing will care to get into it. It is a horizontal turbine, while the others now at the power station are vertical.

MISS LENEVE IS ACQUITTED.

Not Guilty on Charge of Being an Accessory After Fact.

Witness an Object of Keen Scrutiny in London Court.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—After a trial lasting but a few hours in the new Bailey criminal court today, a jury found Ethel Clara Leneve not guilty as an accessory after the fact in the murder of Cora Belle Crippen, for whose death her husband, Dr. Crippen, will die on the gallows November 8.

Miss Leneve was in love with Dr. Crippen and slept in his house on the night of the day following that upon which the doctor murdered his wife, and buried the dismembered parts in the cellar of his Hilldrop Crescent home. She accompanied Crippen in his flight to Canada and with him was arrested and indicted. From the first she has maintained innocence of any knowledge of the crime, but the Crown alleged that her behavior, subsequent to the disappearance of Mrs. Crippen, was such as to betray a guilty knowledge of the murder.

When arraigned today Miss Leneve pleaded not guilty. The Crown prosecutor, Richard Muir, introduced only such evidence as had been brought out in the earlier hearings. Miss Levene's counsel, Frederick E. Smith, M. P., asked the jury to bear in mind that his client had been under the influence of Crippen, one of the most dangerous criminals of recent years, since she was 16 years of age. This, he asserted, accounted for her flight in the doctor's company. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, who presided, in summing up for the jury said that he saw no reason why Dr. Crippen should have told Miss Leneve a story different from that which he told to others.

Miss Leneve was placed on trial as an accessory after the fact in the murder of Cora Belle Crippen for which crime her husband, Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, has been convicted and sentenced to die on the gallows, November 8. As upon the occasion of the physician's trial the courtroom was crowded with members of the legal profession, and as many others as could secure a place by right or influence. There was this difference in the audiences. If Crippen had any well wishers they kept in the back ground, while there was a noticeable sentiment of sympathy for the girl, who, for love of a man nearly twice her age, had sacrificed her reputation, deserted her home and friends, and remained true to him even when their associations made her liable as an accessory to a brutal murder.

Miss Leneve was capably represented by counsel, who took advantage of every technicality of the law to protect their client. According to the prosecution Miss Leneve's relation to the crime, as an accessory, began very soon after the death of Mrs. Crippen. In the case made out against the doctor, Mrs. Crippen, or Belle Elmore, as she was known on the stage, was murdered on the morning of February 1 and her dismembered body buried in the cellar of the Crippen home, at 39 Hilldrop Crescent, on that day. Miss Leneve slept in the Crippen home on the night of the day following. As Miss Leneve sat in the prisoner's dock today, she was a pathetic figure. She is 27 years of age, of medium build, light brown hair, gray eyes and excellent teeth. Her face is pretty and she is trim. She wears good clothes becomingly and being naturally buoyant and affable, she is a prepossessing woman. Today she was attired in the same neat blue costume which she wore at the preliminary hearing in the police court. She entered the dock between two wardresses and remained standing during the few minutes occupied by the swearing in of the jury.

Miss Leneve was an object for keen scrutiny on the part of the women who composed the majority of the spectators. In reply to the formal charge of being an accessory after the fact to the murder of Belle Elmore, the girl pleaded "Not guilty," in a voice that was scarcely audible. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone thereupon called Richard D. Muir, the Crown prosecutor, who outlined the case against the accused. It was clear, Mr. Muir said, that the intrigue between Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve constituted the motive for the murder of Crippen's wife. He dwelt upon the evidence given by Mrs. Jackson, Miss Leneve's landlady, at the preliminary hearing, and which will be introduced at the trial. The illness of the accused on the night of her interview with Mrs. Jackson, was not, the prosecution said, an ordinary illness, but a condition of horror, the explanation of which was the knowledge that had come to her that Crippen had murdered his wife.

Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, who arrested Crippen and Miss Leneve, and the other witnesses for the Crown, were taken rapidly through the evidence, which they had given in the lower court. No new testimony was brought out and the prosecution closed its case before luncheon.

SEQUEL TO CRIPPEN MURDER.

London Chronicle Editor Held for Publishing Certain Assertion.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—There was a sequel to the Crippen murder case today, when the high court inflicted a fine of $1,000 upon Assistant Editor Perris for contempt of court, in permitting the publication in the London Chronicle of a story asserting that Dr. Crippen had purchased hyoscine and had confessed to the murder of his wife. The court ordered that Perris be imprisoned until the fine is paid.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Pitcher Corridon and His Bride Succeeded Well in Carrying Out Their Plans.

At St. Mary's rectory this morning Mr. Francis Joseph Corridon, of base ball fame, and Miss Mary Adeline Frances Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Sullivan, were quietly united in marriage by the rector, Rev. Father Meehan. Only a few of the immediate family were present; in fact, it was a surprise to the friends of the parties to have the ceremony take place as quietly as it did. It was evident that they intended to have a quiet time and not special display about being married and it must be agreed that they made a complete success of it. The couple left this morning on the 11:02 train. They will reside on Russell avenue, on returning from their honeymoon.

The average young man is advised to divide his total earnings as follows: One fifth part for shelter, one fifth part for food, one fifth for clothing, recreation and self-improvement; one fifth for emergencies, such as doctors' bills, drugs, etc., and the remaining one fifth should be set aside for saving.

JAMESTOWN.

Only Routine Business at Monthly Meeting of the Town Council and Court of Probate.

[Reg. Correspondence of The News.]

The monthly meeting of the town council and court of probate was held Monday afternoon in the town hall, with all the members present except Councilman Sowle. Little business except bills came before the meeting.

The following were ordered paid: Dr. E. C. Bullard, services, $99; S. W. Marsh, supplies, $26; W. H. Harvey, labor, $37.25; Ralph Barker, supplies, $23.37; John R. Caswell, labor, $1.80; Thomas H. Lathan, salary, $60; I. H. Clarke, labor, $52; State Board of Charities and Corrections, board, $39.43; Ackerman & Co., supplies, $6.20; Thomas C. Watson, assessor, $24. Sarah H. Eldred, rent, $30; J. G. Stevens, supplies, $12.40; Edwin G. Knowles, salary, $120.30; Robert Lowellyn, labor, $15; Charles E. Hull, salary, $65; George W. West, carriage hire, $4; Jared Woodmansee, board, $12; George B. Wales, salary, $61; L. W. Anthony, supplies, $5.10; Vernon A. Head, carriage hire, .50; William E. Wright, salary, $30; Frederic Anthony, repairs, $94.02; George D. Anthony, repairs, $135.75.

P. S. Arnold was appointed a committee to have the abutment of the Conanicut Park wharf repaired.

Arthur L. Hull and George L. Chandler were appointed Republican and Herbert S. Gardner and Eben N. Tefft, Democratic, supervisors for the November town meeting.

In court of probate the will of Frank A. Williamson was received and referred, with an order of notice.

The first and final account of George L. Chandler, administrator on the estate of Abbott Chandler, was received and referred, with an order of notice.

The state road across the island has been completed and was thrown open for travel this morning.

Mr. Charles Tucker of Point Judith is guest of relatives on the island.

B. S. Cottrell has sold to Manuel D. Lewis a lot of land, 50 by 150 feet, on the southerly side of Narragansett avenue, near Lawn avenue.

H. S. Stubbs and wife have sold to Lazarus and Jennie G. Bottime a lot of land on the west side of North Main road, 50 by 240.5 feet.

SIGNS OF RAIN.

It looked like good weather early this morning. Then it grew threatening, and actually rained. Next the sun came out and the temperature ranged up to 65, and it felt sultry. Then the temperature began to drop, and some say that rain is due. Every one knows that rain is long over-due, but there have been cloudbursts and people have been drowned out by a superabundance of rain in other places.

It might be added that the rotary pump recently installed on the dam for pumping from the south pond has been started and another has been added to the resources of the Water Works. There is still a good deal of water in the Sisson pond in Portsmouth, so that things will not be entirely dry even if it does not rain today.

STATUE OF GENERAL DRAPER.

Widow to Present Plot of Land to Town of Milford for a Park.

MILFORD, Mass. Oct. 25.—The plot of land in front of the First Congregational Church in this town, the taxation of which was the subject of a series of legislative hearings last spring, has been purchased by Mrs. Susan Preston Draper, widow of the late General William F. Draper, former United States ambassador to Italy. Mrs. Draper paid $10,000 for the three-quarter acre plot. She will erect on the lot an equestrian statue of her late husband at an expense of about $50,000, and will then present land and statue to the town of Milford for a park.

The First Congregational parish has owned the land since 1741. Last year, for the first time, the land was assessed for taxes, but after a series of legislative hearings the taxes were abated and orders were issued that in future, the land should be exempt from taxation.

TRIPS TO BEGIN IN NOVEMBER.

Direct Steamship Service from South Africa for New York and Boston.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Vice Consul General George L. Forster of Cape Town has reported to this government that an arrangement has been concluded between the German-Australian Steamship Company and Elder Dempster & Company, for a direct steamship service from South African ports for New York and Boston. The service will begin November next, the steamers to run from Australia via South African ports to the United States. Freight, it is reported, will be accepted for this country at South African ports, at rates considerably lower than those charged via England. The first steamer to make the new route will be the Magdeburg, which will sail from Melbourne, touching Durban, Natal, East London, Algoa Bay and Cape Town. Three other steamers will make the trip at intervals of about 18 days.

FOR INHERITANCE TAX.

Inventory of General William F. Draper's Estate Filed in Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The inventory of the estate of the late General William F. Draper, the first American ambassador to Rome, was filed today with the tax commissioner, for the purpose of determining the inheritance tax and shows a total of $6,358,486. Of the amount, $34,000 is in real estate and the remainder in personal property.

PIANO CASE IN COURT.

Actual Gift May Not Be Recalled by Donor After a Disagreement Between the Parties.

This was civil case day in the district court, and there was what might be called a piano rehearsal, the result of a domestic trouble. It appeared on the docket as a replevin case, brought by Mrs. Joseph Donovan, Jr., against a piano, piano cover and stool in possession of William F. Adams, auctioneer. There were a number of witnesses.

Mr. Joseph Donovan, Sr., had given his daughter-in-law a piano. Then came a separation, and he separated the piano from his daughter-in-law and sent it to the auction room to be sold. The latter secured a writ of replevin. The court, after the witnesses and the lawyers had had their say, had his. He said there was apparently good ground for holding that there had been an actual gift of the piano to the daughter-in-law and that it was hers. He therefore gave judgment for her, with 19 cents damages and costs.

THOMAS PLEADS GUILTY.

Sentenced to the Providence County Jail for Larceny from the Olmsted Estate.

At the police station this morning W. C. Thomas, who was surrendered to the police by the Training Station officials Monday, pleaded guilty to a charge of the larceny of a Japanese sword valued at $400, a coat valued at $50, and a waist valued at $80, all from the Olmsted estate, "Wild Acre." He was sentenced to the Providence county jail for one year.

The original charge against Thomas was breaking and entering. The other two soldiers charged with this offence escaped on trial, leaving Thomas as the scapegoat. It was thought at the time that they were as guilty as Thomas. The charge against him was therefore reduced so that it could come within the jurisdiction of the district court and he pleaded guilty. He was one of the party and so were the others.

BARGE AWARD DECLARED NULL.

Venezuela to Pay Orinoco Steamship Company Large Sum.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 25.—The international court of arbitration rendered its decision in the Orinoco claims case today. The Barge award is declared null on four points and the American company is awarded $46,867, with 3 per cent interest since June 16, 1903, and $7,000 costs. The judgment is to be paid by Venezuela within two months. The tribunal rejected the American contentions on the other points in dispute. William Dennis, as agent for the United States, presented the case of the steamship company.

Today's decision disposes of a long standing dispute between the United States and Venezuela. The Orinoco Steamship Company, a New Jersey corporation, was granted certain exclusive privileges by the government of Venezuela, but the agreement was subsequently repudiated by President Castro. The steamship company instituted an action for $1,400,000 damages. The case was eventually submitted to Dr. Charles Barge, who, as umpire February 22, 1904, awarded the company $25,700. The company appealed to the American government, which refused to accept the decision on the ground that it was contrary to the principles of international law. After prolonged negotiations between Washington and Caracas, it was agred to submit the whole matter to The Hague, where Mr. Dennis asked that the Barge award be declared null, as unjust and erroneous, and the original claims settled on their merits.

BURNED TO WATER'S EDGE.

Schooner Yacht Senta, a New York Craft, Sinks in Edgartown Harbor.

EDGARTOWN, Mass. Oct. 25.—Auxiliary schooner yacht Senta of the New York Yacht Club, owned by John A. Fish of New York, burned to the water's edge, and then sank at her anchorage in Edgartown harbor, early today. Mr. Fish, his guests, Mr. O. A. Williams of Noank, Conn., and Miss K. S. Brown of New York, the sailing master, Captain Wallace Brown of Noank, and the crew of four men, escaped injury and reached the shore in the yacht's boats.

The Senta was valued at $25,000 and there was in addition about $5,000 worth of stores on board, in readiness for a cruise in Florida waters. The fire broke out about 2:30 a. m. Mr. Fish was awakened by the odor of smoke. Investigating, he found that a kerosene heater in the cabin had set fire to the cabin table and the flames were spreading. He hastily aroused all the others on board and the small boats were lowered. Hardly had the occupants of the yacht left the craft, when the heater exploded. There were 250 gallons of gasoline in the tanks and this burned fiercely. In the storerooms a large quantity of ammunition had been placed for hunting in southern waters and the powder exploded, but by this time the occupants of the yacht were at a safe distance. The Senta was insured for $7,500.

STATE HOUSE RE-DEDICATED.

Building at Concord Enlarged and Re-Modelled at Great Expense.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 25.—The state house in this city, enlarged and re-modelled under an act of the legislature of 1909, at an expense of $400,000, was re-dedicated today. Governor Henry B. Quinby and the members of his executive council held a reception in the new executive chambers from 11 to 12 o'clock, after which exercises were held in the enlarged hall of representatives. The speakers were Governor Quinby, United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, former Senator William E. Chandler, Judge David Cross and former Governor Nahum J. Bachelder.

TO TEST THE NEW SYSTEM.

Each State and Territory to Have One Postal Savings Bank for a Month's Trial.

The board of trustees of the postal savings bank system, consisting of Postmaster-General Hitchcock, Secretary MacVeagh, of the Treasury Department, and Attorney General Wickersham, has formally approved a list of 48 postoffices at which the new system of postal savings is to have its first trial. The offices chosen include one for each state and territory. They have been selected after careful investigation by the officials of the Postoffice Department with a view of making the first test of the service as thorough as possible under the limited appropriation provided by Congress. The amount appropriated for the first year of the system was only $100,000, and from this sum must come all the expenses of equipment, including the engraving and printing of forms, certificates, bonds, etc., as well as the cost of clerical assistance.

Owing to the smallness of this appropriation, it has been impossible to establish postal savings banks in the first year in the large cities. The offices designated are all of the second class. In their selection it has been the purpose to choose communities in which the conditions were exceptionally favorable for the development of a postal savings business. Most of the places on the list are industrial centres, where wage earners will be especially benefited by the kind of banking facilities afforded. A large patronage of the service is expected from foreign born Americans in these cities, who are now remitting considerable sums to their native countries, usually in the form of money orders. Many of the places selected, particularly those in the West, are not adequately provided with other savings institutions. The work of furnishing the necessary equipment to the postoffices selected, and having the postmasters and their assistants thoroughly instructed in the operations of the system, will probably consume several weeks, but every effort will be made to have the designated offices ready to receive deposits at the earliest feasible date. It is possible that the plans devised for the postal savings system will receive at least a month's trial in the original 48 offices before others are added to the list, although it is expected that the number will be largely increased before the end of the current fiscal year.

The offices designated in the New England States are: Rumford, Maine; Berlin, N. H.; Montpelier, Vt.; Norwood, Mass.; Bristol, R. I. and Ansonia, Conn.

THE SANITY OF PARIS.

[Success Magazine]

The French live within their means, and by a sense of economy wholly unknown to us, manage to save and retire to enjoy whatever fortune has stored up for them. To them France is sufficient; they voyage rarely and gamble less. The spendthrift or the man who plunges on the Bourse, the races and the gaming-table is regarded by the masses in the light of a rogue and a fool.

The Parisians work hard enough for their leisure, but they never eliminate it nor allow their work to encroach upon their traditional daily vacation, as luncheon, the aperitif hour, dinner and fete days. They work, not to amass millions and die in harness, but to save enough to give their daughter her dot, without which she may never marry; start their son in his chosen trade and have enough income left to retire before they are too old to enjoy their freedom.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. John H. Gillingham is here from the South to visit his family.

—Mr. Edward Mildeberg of New York is guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wentz.

—Mrs. C. Whipple and Mrs. Burgess have returned from a visit to the Berkshires.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Roelker and Mrs. C. L. Best will close their cottages Wednesday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince sailed for Europe today on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Davenport have returned from a two weeks' visit in New York.

—Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Mr. J. Barton Willing and Mrs James P. Kernochan have closed their cottages.

—Rev. Oscar F. Moore, Jr., who has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Jones, returned Monday to Lee, Mass.

—Professor and Mrs. Sludger of East Greenwich will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Riggs, on Gould street, while in town.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs have taken possession of their apartments on Park avenue, New York.

—Commodore and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry returned from Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm II, which arrived at New York today.

—Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt and Countess Von Bernstoff were passengers on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, arriving today at New York.

—Officers McCormick and Allen have returned from their vacations and Officers McMahon and Weaver have been granted ten days' leave of absence.

—Mrs. James Durfee left this morning for Columbus, Ohio, and will visit in Albany and elsewhere in New York en route. She expects to be absent from Newport about three weeks.

—Samuel H. Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. William Lenden of Worcester, and John L. Mowry and Frank C. Pearson of Boston are registered at the United States Hotel.

—Rev. Walter Lowrie, who has been spending an extended vacation in this country, sailed from New York Saturday on the Koenig Albert for Rome, to resume his duties as rector of the American Church in that city.

—The torpedo boat destroyer flotilla, consisting of the Flusser, Read, Lamson and Smith, commanded by Lieutenant Commander George C. Day, left Annapolis Monday for Solomon's Island, for gun and torpedo practice.

—Rev. N. J. Sproul, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, spoke to an interested audience at the Walter Lowrie club Sunday afternoon. President King and Mr. F. J. Herrick also had parts in the service and the Walter Lowrie male quartet—Messrs. F. W. King, Edmund King, H. B. Wood and Edgar Stanis—sang.

—Commander Mark L. Bristol, inspector in charge of the Torpedo Station, accompanied by Lieutenant Charles Belknap, went to Sag Harbor Monday in torpedo boat Morris, to witness trials of Bliss-Leavitt torpedoes. Rear Admiral Newton E. Mason, chief of the bureau of ordnance, returned on the Morris as guest of Commander Bristol.

—A dozen carpenters are building forms, iron workers are building up re-inforcements to go in them, and other mechanics are putting them in place, at the new Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association. The concrete mixer is still idle and it is the purpose to frame in the basement formation, and then run it in one complete mass, pillars and girders, so that when it sets it will be as if one stone.

—Things are rather quiet at the Colonial Theatre, except in front, where excavation is in progress for the remaining section of foundation. The electrical workers are putting the ducts into the walls and the plastering for the side walls is arriving, but the sheet metal for the ceiling is not yet on the job, though all is ready for it. Until the ceiling and plastering is on, the carpenters have not much to do within the structure.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

INDIAN OUTRAGES RECALLED.

Tablet Erected at Lake Park in Memory of Samuel Lenorson.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—One of the most notable incidents in connection with the Indian outrages against the early colonists, the remarkable escape from captivity of Mrs. Hannah Dustin, Mrs. Mary Neffe, and 14-year-old Samuel Lenorson, after tomahawking ten of their captors, near Concord, N. H., in 1697, is recalled anew by the placing here of a tablet to the memory of the boy. Monuments already memorialized the heroines, but young Lenorson's youthful bravery, quite unmentioned, had previously been without mark.

The tablet is placed on a tower at Lark Park, marking the site of the Lenorson home, from which he was stolen in 1695, by Indians. It recites briefly the facts of the boy's connection with the episode. After two years of wandering captivity, he was with a party of Indians which, March 15, 1697, massacred 27 men, women and children, at Haverhill. Thirteen captives were taken, among them Mrs. Dustin and Mrs. Neffe, who had been caring for her, and her new born infant. Preparing for their retreat the Indians dashed the babe against a tree.

The anguished mother nearly died during the six weeks' march through the wilderness, but recovering strength of mind and body Mrs. Dustin resolved, while the party was encamped at Concord, N. H., to try to escape. In the early morning of April 30, 1697, the two women and the Lenorson boy, who had been set apart from the other captives, armed themselves with tomahawks taken from their sleeping captors and killed ten of them. A squaw and boy alone escaped. To confirm the story of their remarkable deliverance the scalps of their victims were taken. A boat was secured and the three paddled down the Merrimac, arriving safely at their homes to joyfully surprise their sorrowing relatives.

BUSINESS WORRY KILLS.

There's a Way Storekeepers Can Cut it Out.

There is no need for you or your bookkeeper or your cashier or your head clerk to stay late at night after the others have gone, working away at your cash balance—working desperately perhaps, because you want to go home and keep an engagement. There is a way to stop that worry. A National Cash Register will do it.

Perhaps when you do go home you wonder whether everybody who bought goods on credit has been properly charged with them at your store. Your clerks have the same thought on their minds. And whenever the cash doesn't balance it worries them as well as you. Although clerks do the best they can, still mistakes will happen, especially in very busy times of the day.

Put in a National Cash Register adapted to your business and your troubles will be banished, scenes will change, your business will be closed up earlier and troubles of this kind will be banished from your store. No more trusting to human brains to be accurate. Our machines force them to be that. A National keeps an absolute check upon your money for you.

Why not investigate? Costs nothing to do that.

PANIC IN COTTON MARKET.

New Orleans Excited by Census Bureau Figures in Ginning.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—The cotton market was thrown into a panic of buying on the opening, today, by the census bureau figures on ginning up to October 18. Prices rose 14 to 20 points on the first call and the advance was widened to 21 to 25 points in the early trading. The market expected a report of 6,000,000 bales, but the census bureau put the amount ginned at only 5,410,960 bales.

FRESH BUYING MOVEMENT.

Started by Census Report Showing Amount Ginned in October.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The census report showing only 5,410,000 bales of cotton ginned to October 19 this year, against 5,530,000 bales last season, started a fresh buying movement in the cotton market today, and prices, which had recently declined over one cent a pound, shot up in a sensational manner on arrival of bull support and heavy outside demand. The market opened at an advance of 5 to 24 points and before midday was selling anywhere from 47 to 51 points above the closing figures of yesterday, with December contracts showing an advance of about $2.50 per bale above the low level of yesterday. The trade had been looking for ginning figures of nearly 6,000,000 bales in line with recent increased estimates of the crop.

GUN ACCIDENTALLY DISCHARGES

Young Greenville Boy Shot and Instantly Killed.

GREENVILLE, R. I., Oct. 25.—While handling a shot gun near his home here today Harry Wade, 16 years old, shot and killed Clinton Buswell, a five-year-old boy. Wade had left his home about noon, preparatory to go hunting, when he met the Buswell boy. In some unexplainable manner the gun was discharged, killing Buswell. The shooting is said to have been accidental and it was not expected Wade would be held responsible for it.

FOUR PERSONS BADLY INJURED.

Boston and Northern Street Railway Car Splits a Switch.

ANDOVER, Mass. Oct. 25.—Four persons were badly injured today, when a Boston and Northern Street Railway trolley car "split a switch" at Wilson's corner, North Andover, and was derailed. All of the 20 or more passengers were badly shaken up. The car, bound from Salem for Lawrence, was running at a fair rate of speed, although it had slowed down when approaching the switch. The switch was so set that the car would run straight ahead, but in some unexplained manner the rear trucks of the car swerved to the side, upsetting the car.

Alexander Chapman, conductor of the car, received a broken leg. Josiah Dodge of Beverly was cut on the scalp and received several abrasions about the body. Thomas Burke of Rotterdam, N. Y., was badly bruised on the shoulder and one of his knees was cut, and P. F. Norton, of Lawrence was badly shaken up and suffered from nervous shock. The four seriously hurt were taken to the Lawrence Hospital.

ANARCHISTIC CIRCULAR APPEARS

President Falliéres and Cabinet Members Under Constant Guard.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—President Falliéres and the members of the cabinet are being guarded constantly, as the result of the appearance of an anarchistic circular condemning the ministers to death, because of the conviction in the courts of the militant members among the railway strikers.

The Socialists met today and adopted resolutions of sympathy for Germans oppressed by militarism.

WARM FIGHT PREDICTED.

Amateur Athletic Union to Hold Annual Election of Officers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—President Everett C. Brown of the National Amateur Athletic Union has issued a call for the annual meeting of the organization to be held in New York, November 21. Every branch of the big organization will be represented, as a number of important affairs will come up for disposal. The chief thing will be the annual election of officers and from present indications a warm fight is predicted over the presidency.

German railroads are trying automatic station announcers, placed in each car of a train and operated from the baggage car.

SENATOR SHIVELY'S CONDITION.

To Undergo Operation for Removal of a Bone From His Foot.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 25.—United States Senator B. F. Shively will undergo an operation within a few days, for the removal of a bone from his foot, according to his physician. Mr. Shively's condition has been exaggerated, the physician said, but it is improbable that the Senator will recover in time to re-enter the campaign.

IN DICKINSON'S HONOR.

President Falliéres Entertains High Officials at Luncheon.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—President Falliéres gave a luncheon at the Elysee Palace today, in honor of Jacob M. Dickinson, the American Secretary of War. Other guests were American Ambassador Bacon, Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, Foreign Minister Pinchon Major T. J. Mott, American military attache, and several French officers.

POLICE GUARD SHOPS.

Rickert in Chicago to Direct Plans for Garment Workers' Walk-Out.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—With 15,000 garment workers on strike, the police force about the shops affected has been materially strengthened. Thomas A. Rickert, international president of the United Garment Workers of America, has arrived in the city to direct plans for a walk-out of 30,000 more before the end of the week, unless a settlement of the difficulties is brought about before that time.

A $500,000 LOSS.

Fire in Huge Shed in Superior Burns 250,000 Tons of Coal.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Oct. 25.—A huge coal shed on the M. A. Hanna coal wharf was destroyed by fire early today. It contained 250,000 tons of anthracite coal. The entire fire department and several fire tugs worked to prevent the blaze from spreading to other big piers, and boats near by. The loss is $500,000.

A DUTCH CHURCH BENEFACTOR.

[Boston Transcript.]

Rev. Dr. Elias van Bunschooten, who flourished in the early part of the last century, amassed a respectable fortune, and left $20,000 to the General Squad of the Dutch Reformed Church of America. One condition was attached, one that seemed natural and harmless. That his will should be read at every session of the church, no matter where or for what purpose convened, until time should be no more. At first the clerks and secretaries read with enthusiasm. "Twenty thousand dollars" had a grateful and comforting sound, and it seemed possible that mention of it would inspire somebody to bequeath more money for the purpose that Dr. Elias designed, the education of young men for the ministry and the support of instructors in theological seminaries. No such result has been observed, however; after 75 years the reading of the will has come to have the effect of vain repetition; and the classes of New York have voted to ask the United States Supreme Court—provided classes in other sections of the country take similar action—if it may not omit the reading of the will and continue to hold the $20,000. Thus Dr. Elias's clutch at posthumous fame seems liable to fail. Yet he has had his day, and it should soothe his spirit to realize that no living member of the Dutch Reformed Church will ever be able to forget him.

Friday evening—Organ recital, Gene Ware; assisted by Miss Virginia Boyt Anderson, violinist; reading, Edmond Rostand's "Chantecler," with original translations, Courtney Langdon, professor of romance languages and literatures.

Saturday morning—Business meeting.

ANXIOUS FOR EXTENSION OF THE STREET RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Some time ago we read that the Old Colony Street Railway Company proposed extending the line down Morton and Carroll avenues to the foot of Harrison avenue. Upon reading of the proposed improvement we made a canvass of that section of the city and found that all who reside there were delighted to think they were to have this much needed accommodation, as they feel that if they must walk to the present terminus they may as well walk to their destination.

Is the railway company satisfied with its present receipts? If not, they will certainly be increased by the proposed extension, as this is certainly the fastest growing section of the city at the present and will soon be as thickly settled as any portion of the city. There is very little land near these avenues that can be bought, as nearly all is owned by persons who propose to build in the near future. There are at present 19 houses in course of erection and more are, we understand, contracted for, and it looks as though there will be plenty of work done in this section this coming winter. With the increased population, it certainly demands better railway service and we hope to have it, and have it, too, before the snows come.

Cambrian Glee Singers Give Another Fine Concert.

Good Music by Chorus, Soloists and Violin, With Alf Thomas, Monologuist.

For a second time the Cambrian National Glee Singers of Wales have opened the local Young Men's Christian Association entertainment course, and for the second time a large audience has been delighted by the fine concert given by them. Not only were the recollections of those who heard the Singers a year ago vivid and keen, but the anticipations of many others were great, and none need have been disappointed. It was a varied program which was presented, and each number —whether solo, duet or chorus, by the instrumentalist or the monologuist—was well rendered. "Subject to change without notice," the line at the bottom of the printed program, was a privilege which was freely used and the audience was not always able to tell easily just what was being given. Nearly all the printed numbers, however, were included, though not always in the order indicated, and in addition several others. These, besides a generous response to encores, lengthened the entertainment much beyond its original limits. In the re-arrangement of the program the absence of the quartet selection was regretted.

It was a pleasure to hear the Cambrians as a chorus. They sing with such heartiness and evident enjoyment, with such technical skill and good training, with such harmony and volume of tone, that their work throughout is of almost uniform excellence. From the spirited "On the Rampart," at the opening, to the Welsh song and "America," at the close, each selection was finely given. Gennee's "Musical Jest—Italian Salad" was amusing, but to many the gem of all was the ever beautiful "Killarney," tenor solo and chorus, sung with much sweetness and expression.

One baritone and two tenor solos were given, each by a singer of good voice and evident experience. Sargent's "Blow, blow, thou winter winds" was sung by Mr. Williams with such robust force and spirit as to earn an encore, while Messrs. Stephens and Thomas, whose selections were not on the program, also gave much pleasure. The duet, "The moon has raised," Benedict, showed to advantage the deep, powerful bass of Mr. Jones and the sweet soft tenor of Mr. Walsh, the two voices blending beautifully in the closing strains.

Willie Richards, violin soloist, was an addition to the program since last year, and an acceptable one. In "Caleph of Bagdad," his first number, he displayed so much skill in bowing and so great a command of the possibilities of his instrument, that an encore was demanded and given. His second appearance, in a livelier selection of very different character, again showed him to be an accomplished player of more than ordinary power.

Another innovation was Alf Thomas, monologuist. Instead of one "humorous song," for which he was down on the program, he gave two, and each of these received a double or triple encore. In each case the original selections were mere nonsensical topical songs while in response to the recall he showed imitative and dramatic powers not before revealed. His "To be continued in our next," requiring acting of varied types, was capitally done; the "I'm tired" song is rarely better rendered, his representation of a little girl reciting her first "piece" was irresistibly life-like and funny, while the brief passage from the grandfather's soliloquy at the death of Little Nell, which followed, was made by the sharp contrast all the more dramatically pathetic. Mr. Thomas, like the Singers, would gladly be heard again in Newport.

GOING TO THE DELAWARE.

Mr. Cooley of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. Assigned as Shipboard Secretary.

Mr. T. S. Cooley, who has been an assistant secretary of the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association for about a year, has been assigned to the Delaware as shipboard secretary, for the cruise to Europe. He will report on the Delaware at Norfolk probably in about a week. Mr. Cooley has made many friends during his stay in Newport, having been especially active in the work of the Home Hour Bible Club and the social and religious meetings at the Association rooms.

COLORED REPUBLICAN CLUB ENDORSES SHEFFIELD.

A meeting of the Young Men's Colored Republican Club of Providence, was held Monday evening, the first session of the organization in the present campaign, and was well attended. The club endorsed Congressman Sheffield of the First Congressional district and also passed resolutions on the death of Charles R. Brayton, referring to the latter as "the negro's great friend." Addresses were made by Samuel W. Walker, Arthur B. Williams, J. T. Ray of this city, Eugene A. Watson of Pawtucket, Edward P. Oliver and Rev. J. W. Wiley, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church, all the speakers touching on local, state and national issues.

NEW DATE FOR THE PEABODY-DEACON WEDDING.

The announcement is made that the marriage of Miss Edith Deacon to Mr. George Lee Peabody of Boston will take place in the apartments of Mrs. C. H. Baldwin. Miss Deacon's grandmother, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, January 7. The wedding was to have taken place September 15, at Mrs. Baldwin's summer residence in this city, but was postponed on account of the illness of Mr. Peabody. Among Miss Deacon's attendants will be Mrs. John W. Cutler, who was Miss Emily Rosalind Fish before her marriage, Saturday, at Garrison-on-the-Hudson.

RECEPTION AND SOCIAL.

Addresses of Reminiscence and of Congratulation.

Dual Celebration of Unitarian Church Anniversary and Remembrance of Rev. Mr. Brooks.

The assembly which gathered in the Channing parlors Monday evening was a singularly representative one; almost all the religious bodies of the city being represented either by their clergymen or by members of their congregation. The occasion was one which appealed to the older residents of Newport, who recalled the memory of the late Charles T. Brooks, the first minister of the Unitarian Church in this city. The dual idea of celebrating the Seventy-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the Unitarian Church in Newport, and the especial remembrance of the first pastor, Rev. Mr. Brooks, was admirably carried out in the reception and social.

The parlors never looked more homelike and pleasant, than they did last night, the decorations being much more elaborate than have been seen in the rooms before. Flowers were used extensively and wreaths and garlands of leaves ornamented the three rooms. Electric lights were judiciously used, and the entire scheme gave a pleasant welcome to the 200 who gathered for the occasion.

The platform had been removed and above the photograph of Rev. Mr. Brooks were the dates 1835 and 1910 outlined in electric lights. In the right rear parlor the guests were received and in the left rear parlor was the table, handsomely decorated with candelabra and alamandas. From this a bountiful buffet collation was served, souvenirs of the occasion consisting of paper napkins and a booklet containing the photographs of Rev. Dr. Brooks, Rev. William Safford Jones, the old Unitarian and the Channing Church being first distributed.

Miss Alva Marsh opened the proceedings by a well executed piano selection, and at its conclusion the ushers worked vigorously and efficiently and saw that all present were presented to the reception committee, which consisted of the trustees of the church and the present and former pastors. In this committee were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Congdon, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Lull, Rev. George W. Cutter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lee, Mr. and Mrs John H Scannevin, Rev. Charles W. Wendte, Mrs. A. F. Squire, Miss Lizzie Durfee, Mrs. W. J. Underwood, Rev. A. P. Record, Rev. and Mrs. William Safford Jones and Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Carr.

The formal part of the program was taken in charge by Dr. A. F. Squire, who in his usually happy way, gave a hearty welcome to all present and introduced the speakers for the evening.

Rev. George W. Cutter made the first address and his remarks were listened to with attention. He recalled the many pleasant memories he had of his ministry at the Channing Church, and referred to the saintly man to whose memory it stands as a memorial. During the speaker's pastorate he had been especially interested in the work of the Sunday School, and in looking over the congregation for a suitable person to have charge, he had selected a man who struck him as eminently suitable for the position, and it gave him unqualified satisfaction and pleasure to see that Mr. Walter Wright was still in the place. Rev. Mr. Cutter spoke of the singularly strong belief of Channing in the Unity of God, and also referred feelingly to the work done for the Church by Rev. Charles T. Brooks and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Holman sang sweetly "I Know a Garden," and Rev. Charles W. Wendte was introduced. His opening remarks were so crisp and bright that he at once had the ear of his audience. He dwelt strongly on the point of the unusually happy home life which is to be found in Newport, and spoke of the delightful memory he carries with him of his stay in this community. A singular instance is that today is the exact twenty-fifth anniversary of the day on which Rev. Mr. Wendte preached his farewell sermon in the Channing Church. The work of the Unity Club and the many celebrated orators and divines who have spoken at Channing were referred to, and the speaker concluded his remarks by recalling many of the former members of the church and paying a special tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Alfred Smith. His references to Rev. Charles T. Brooks were personal appreciations and his final saying was that a knowledge of Rev. Mr. Brooks meant "a memory which would sanctify any church."

Reference was made to many noted persons who have been associated with Channing Church, George E. Waring, James Freeman Clarke, Edward Everett Hale, Rev. M. J. Savage and Julia Ward Howe being mentioned. At one time during Dr. Wendte's pastorate the Civil Service Reform Commission met in the Channing parlors, and Carl Schurz, George W. Curtis, Theodore Roosevelt, Charles J. Bonaparte and other well known men were present.

Rev. Mr. Wendte also spoke of the late Mrs. Alfred Smith, George W. Wales, the Wells, John Foster, the Lows, F. C. French, Mrs. Eustis, Mrs. Gibbs, Edmund Tweedy, T. G. Appleton, George Bancroft, John G. Weaver, Captain Covell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Stevens, George Pierce and Thomas Coggeshall; all formerly connected with the church.

Dr. H. H. Luther sang two selections, and the next speaker was Rev. A. P. Record, who spoke feelingly of the days when he had the ministry of the church. He referred to the present minister in complimentary terms, saying he returned to Newport to find "the most contented minister and congregation in the United States." Rev. Mr. Record also paid a graceful tribute to the memory of Rev. Mr. Brooks, and referred to the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Stevens, John H. Crosby, A. O'D. Taylor and Rev. John G. Kimball, a former pastor of Channing. He urged the members of the church to continue to lead a life of disinterested public service.

Rev. Joseph Cooper of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, as president of the Ministers' Union, offered his congratulations to all present on the occasion of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Unitarian Church here in Newport, and spoke of the vast good which had been done by its members in all departments of civic life. The spirit of cooperation, and the brotherhood of mankind were two of the points most strongly dwelt upon.

Dr. Squire announced that he had received from Madame Wendte, mother of Rev. C. W. Wendte, a special message of congratulation to the congregation, and wishes for God's blessings in its work.

Miss Susan J. Weaver read several essays, written by various members of the church, recalling incidents of the past 50 years. These were personal reminiscences and were listened to with much interest. They were gathered from Miss H.C. Ellery, Mrs. George Slocum, Mrs. A. Manton Chase, Mrs. Phillip S. Chase, Mrs. Tenney, Mrs. H. L. Stevens, Miss Rebecca Hoxworth, Mrs. Thomas Coggeshall, Mrs. Emma Buckhout, Mrs. A. Prescott Baker, Mrs William Stewart, Mrs. William Kelly and Mrs. George F. Crandall. Miss Weaver also gave some of her own reminiscences and closed her paper by reading a poem written by the late Mrs. John G. Kimball on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the church.

Rev. William Safford Jones, the present minister, was the next speaker of the evening. His remarks were brief but struck the key-note of the occasion, when he epigrammatically indicated that if the members of the church today will carry forward with the same spirit of truth the message which has been handed to them by their forefathers they will surely gain the good for which they are striving.

At the conclusion of the addresses refreshments were served, and although it was past 11 o'clock the entire gathering remained for a pleasant half-hour's conversation and social time. The refreshments and decorations were in charge of Mrs. John V. Stewart and Mr. Wright.

The spirit of the evening could not be better expressed than by the quotation of the following beautiful lines written by Rev. Charles T. Brooks himself, entitled "A Memory:"

As, year by year, pale Autumn's leaves
Breathe requiems by his native shore,
A spirit's voice is heard, that grieves
For him whose form returns no more.

As, year by year, bright Autumn days
Come down from God's transparent skies,
A spirit's voice gives grateful praise
For Him whose memory never dies.

MARRIED IN FALL RIVER.

The marriage of Miss Mary McGuire, daughter of Mrs. Ellen McGuire of Fall River, to Mr. Timothy F. Sullivan of this city, took place Monday, at St. Patrick's Church in Fall River, Rev. Father Griffin performing the marriage ceremony and conducting the nuptial mass which followed. The bride wore a gown of white silk, with picture hat to match, and was attended by her sister, Miss Sarah McGuire, as bridesmaid, who wore a suit of light grey, with hat to match. Mr. William Burns attended the groom. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, guests being present from Providence, New Bedford, Fall River and this city. Mr and Mrs. Sullivan left during the afternoon on a short wedding trip, after which they will come to Newport to reside.

NOT A QUESTION OF LIQUOR LICENSE FEES.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

The recent communications which have appeared in The News in regard to the license question have been admirable and full of force and truth. Your first correspondent was doubtless honest in supposing it to be merely a question of getting the license fees. There are, however, some things that money—no amount of money—can atone for. As some one has suggested, Judas Iscariot would not have done any more respectable act if he had received for it 1,000 pieces of silver, instead of 30. And the government which, instead of protecting its people, sets pitfalls to catch and ruin them, and accepts license money for so doing, is as false to its trust as was the arch betrayer.

PHIL OTT'S MUSICAL COMEDIES.

Phil Ott, whose peculiar eccentricities as a comedian are remembered with pleasure by those who enjoyed the work of Joe Ott in "The Star Gazer," in which Phil appeared as "the double," will remember how they were mystified and amused by the appearance of first one and then the other, both seemingly the same individual. Since that time Mr. Ott has been appearing in high-class productions, in both legitimate and vaudeville, in every part of the country, but his one hobby has been to provide high-class musical entertainments at popular prices. Realizing that the day of the melodrama has run its course, he has equipped himself with several musical farces, in which there are many comedy situations, but in which there are also many pleasing musical numbers and pretty dances. "The Auto Girl" and "The Explorer," which will be presented during the engagement of Phil Ott's comedians here, are two of these musical comedies.

VISITORS TO TRINITY DURING THE SUMMER.

Mrs. Kemp, caretaker of Trinity Church during the time it is open for visitors during the week, from June 1 to October 1, reports that the past season on secular days there were 7,308 visitors to the historic church. This is a slight increase over the number reported for 1909, but so slight that it could well be said the number for each year is approximately the same. This is a favorite visiting place for strangers and many automobile touring parties make a stop at Trinity to look over the old church and take a quiet rest.

TO TEST PACIFIC COAST COAL.

Two War Vessels to Have Competition in Trying Out Western and Eastern Products.

The naval authorities are interested in a competitive test which is shortly to take place on the Pacific coast. The results of the competition may have a serious effect on the amount of business which is now controlled by the Eastern contractors in coal. For years the coal-producing firms on the Pacific coast have been besieging the Navy Department to adopt for vessels on that coast, at least, the coal which is mined in that section of the country. It has been represented that the coal is equal in steaming qualities and for naval use to the fuel which is purchased under contract in the East. The naval engineers have entertained some doubts on the subject, and while the Western coal has its undoubted merit, it has been pointed out by those responsible for the maintenance of speed that it is of military importance to have the best possible coal in order that there may be no hindrance to the speed of war vessels. While this is not an essential factor in time of peace, it is obviously a vital one in time of war, when the success of any project might easily depend upon the maximum speed.

The Navy Department has decided that there is only one way to settle the mooted question and avoid the controversies which come up every year between the department and the Pacific Coast coal dealers. It has been arranged that as soon as the target practise of the Pacific fleet has been completed, two of the vessels, the Maryland and the West Virginia, shall be used in the competition. The Maryland will be loaded with Western coal, carefully weighed, while the West Virginia will burn Eastern coal in the same quantity. The two vessels will steam together over a measured course, and the comparison will be made as to the speed, endurance and other desirable features. Several brands of Western coal will be burned. The material is now in San Francisco bay, awaiting transfer to the naval vessels. A careful record will be kept, and it will be easy to determine whether the Western coal is equal to the Eastern product.

AUCTION SALES.

Valuable Real Estate At Auction.

The estate of the late Howard Smith, Mt. Vernon and Sherman Streets, will be divided into twelve parcels and sold at public auction on the
